If Nixon Refuses to Honor Subpoenas . . .

Impeachment Warning from House Panel

ST. CLAIR LEAVES IMPEACHMENT HEARING (UPI TELEPHOTO)

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee voted 28 to 10 today to inform President Nixon his refusal to honor its subpoenas "might consitute a ground for impeachment."

After an hour's debate the congressmen agreed to send Nixon a letter advising him they will feel free to conclude he is hiding evidence harmful to his cause by continuing to ignore subpoenas for Watergate tapes and documents.

The committee also was considering whether to subpoena more presidential tapes and documents in its impeachment inquiry. Three subpoenas have already been issued. Nixon ignored two and released his Watergate transcripts in response to the third.

In their debate the members revised and somewhat softened a letter proposed by Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., a key southerner on the committee.

The key paragraph in the adopted version read:

"In meeting their constitutional responsibilites, committee members will be free to consider whether your refusals require the drawing of adverse inferences concerning the substance of the materials, and whether your refusals in and of themselves might constitute the ground for impeachment."

One Democrat, Rep. John Conyers Jr. of Michigan, and nine Republicans voted against sending the letter. Twenty Democrats and eight Republicans voted in favor. Conyers objected because he wanted stronger action.

Speaking for the Republican opponents, Rep. David Dennis, R-Ind., called the letter a "useless gesture" and added the committee would draw inferences from Nixon's noncompliance with the subpoenas 'whether or not we write a letter."

The letter as approved by the committee was essentially in the form drafted by the committee staff Wednesday night.

The President has steadfastly maintained he is innocent of any wrongdoing in connection with the Watergate scandals. Rep. C. V. "Sonny" Montgomery, D-Miss., one of his supporters who accompanied the President on a cruise Wednesday night, quoted him today as saying:

"If I was guilty, I'd get the hell out fast, but I'm not guilty."

Three Watergate prosecution lawyers investigating ITT case quit; Internal Revenue Service admits errors in original audits of White House friends and enemies. Stories page 38.

The White House has insisted the committee has all the Watergate information it needs to make a judgment and there will be no more forthcoming.

Gerald L. Warren, deputy press secretary, said Wednesday the Judiciary Committee should not draw "an inference of guilt" by Nixon's refusal to turn over additional materials.

Meanwhile, U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica today refused to pass along four White House Watergate tapes to the House Judiciary Committee, saying if impeachment investigators want them they will have to seek them directly from President Nixon.

Sirica said he was powerless to grant a committee request to be permitted to hear full recordings of four presidential conversations originallly subpoenaed for the Watergate grand jury and now in the court's possession.

Sirica said he is only the "temporary custodian" of the original tapes for the sole reason of screening them to rule on presidential claims of executive privilege. As such, he said, he has no authority to pass the tapes along to anyone other than the grand jury for which they were subpoenaed.

"This situation is . . . is a matter for presidential not judicial response," Sirica said in a memorandum filed with the court. "Requests to listen and copy should be directed to the President. The committee, if rebuffed, must itself determine what remedy or course it will pursue.

"If on the other hand its application is satisfied, no problem arises. The President will be responsible for his own decision."

Sirica said the House committee has asked to examine certain secret court materials over the past several weeks and that most of those requests have been granted but he said those materials were court property as contrasted to the four tapes that technically are not.

In a related matter, President Nixon asked the Supreme Court today not to make a "hasty determination" whether he should surrender new evidence in the Watergate coverup case.

In a brief filed in the high court, Nixon's attorneys said it would be far better to allow the judicial process "to run its orderly course" and for the case to first clear the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia, where it is now docketed.

Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski is seeking tapes and records of 64 White House conversations and wants the Supreme Court to decide in the next few weeks whether he can have them.

Kissinger Heads Home After Longest, Toughest Mideast Peace Mission

ISRAELI SOLDIERS HEAR THE GOOD NEWS (UPI TELEPHOTO)

CAIRO (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Cairo en route home today to meet with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and brief him on the historic eight-point Israeli-Syrian agreement for troop separation in the Golan Heights.

As Kissinger arrived in Cairo, the United States released the text of the agreement, which provided for an immediate cease-fire when the pact is signed in Geneva Friday and troop pullbacks within four weeks.

Kissinger arrived in Cairo from Israel for the brief stopover to tell Sadat about the marathon negotiations that brought about the agreement.

The secretary of state was scheduled to be back in Washington tonight, 33 days after setting out on his longest, toughest and most complicated Middle East peace mission.

Before leaving Israel, Kissinger said the pact could be a "turning point in the history of the Middle East."

A high American official said that Kissinger was on the point of giving up three times during his tough 32-day negotiations, but each time persisted because he felt that war would result if he failed.

"The United States is dedicated to a permanent peace in the Middle East," Kissinger said in a brief statement on arrival at Cairo airport, where he was met by Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmi.

"What has been agreed up to now is considered by us only as a first step towards that goal for which we will work closely and with confidence with your (Egyptian) government and your leaders," Kissinger said.

The disengagement agreement contained eight main points, with six points governing the troop disengagement itself. It contained few surprises and the separate documents governing a thinning out of forces were not released.

The text of the agreement called for Israeli and Syrian officers in a military working group to begin working out a detailed plan for the disengagement within 24 hours after the agreement is signed and completed within five days.

Disengagement will begin 24 hours after that and be completed in another 20 days.

"I believe it can mark a turning point in the history of the Middle East," the secretary of state said in a departure statement at Ben-Gurion International Airport.

The secretary noted "the gulf of suspicion, the lack of confidence, the suffering that had to be bridged in order to bring both sides to the point where they could take this step toward peace that they have in fact taken."

"Having overcome these obstacles, there is now hope we can move toward a period of lasting peace in the Middle East," he said.

A tearful Prime Minister Golda Meir called Kissinger "fantastic" Wednesday night and thanked him for ending "the nightmare of killing and war" on the Golan Heights.

The decisions of Mrs. Meir and Syrian President Hafez Assad to accept the accord Wednesday marked the first formal agreement between the two warring nations since the armistice ending Israel's 1948 war of independence.

Israel was expected to arrange a new troop pullback accord with Egypt in the fall and then attempt to reach a military disengagement pact with Jordan.

City Refuse Truck Burns

Kingston firemen attempt to put down flames after a city refuse truck burst into fire Wednesday morning at the intersection of Washington and Lucas Avenues. The driver, George Hart of 47 Derrenbacher Street, escaped uninjured, but the truck was extensively damaged. Fire officials attributed the blaze to leaking hydraulic fluid that ignited when it dripped onto the hot exhaust system. The heat from the blaze was so intense it ignited refuse in the cargo compartment. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Lloyd Power Plant Vote Saturday

By WADE BURKHART

LLOYD

Town of Lloyd voters will have a single, straightforward question to decide or in Saturday's advisory referendum on power plant siting in the township.

The wording of the question is, "Do you favor the locating of a power plant in the Town of Lloyd?" The answer is a "yes" or a "no."

The State Atomic and Space Development Authority (ASDA) is currently studying a 2,300 acre site located in both Lloyd and neighboring Esopus to determine its suitability for the location of power plants. ASDA, as it name implies, is mainly concerned with the siting of nuclear power plants.

ASDA identifies and studies potential sites. The actual building and operation of power plants is done by private utilities.

Lloyd Supervisor Jon Decker said Wednesday that the questions was chosen because the town board wanted to keep it short and to the point." he felt ASDA did not restrict itself to only nuclear power plants, and the question was "almost verbatim" from a recommendation sent to the town board by the power plant advisory committee it appointed.

The advisory committee's recommendation was against the siting of any power plants in Lloyd.

This Saturday's referendum will be held from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the lobby of the Highland High School on Pancake Hollow Road.

Eligibility for voting in the referendum is being determined by voter registration rolls supplied to the town by the Ulster County Board of Elections. Decker said all those registered to vote in the 1973 town election, and those who have registered since then, would be eligible for the referendum.

Impact study on Lloyd atomic plant is questioned. Story, page 4.

The town has a total voter registration of 3,404, Decker said. It normally votes from 2,200 to 2,300 in an election. Decker said he hoped for "at least" that number in the referendum.

The referendum is advisory, only. State law does not provide for a binding referendum on such issues. Decker and other member of the town board have said the results of the referendum will "weigh heavily" in their deliberations on what stand to take on locating power plants in Lloyd.

Exactly how much the referendum results will weigh is "kind of tough to quantify," Decker said. He said the size of the vote and the decisiveness of the way the vote went could be important.

The town board will be taking its stand "within 30 to 60 days" after the vote, Decker said. In addition to the advisory committee's recommendation, which the town board has, and the results of the referendum, which it will soon be getting, Decker said the board wanted a full written report from the advisory committee, the chance to visit with towns which already have such plants located in them, and the impact studies done on the site by ASDA, before it makes a decision.

He said the "largest thing," however, will be the results of the referendum.

Voting in the referendum will be by machine, with volunteers to man desks representing the seven election districts in Lloyd.

MIA Ex-Husband Declared Dead

Wait Ends for County Woman

WEST HURLEY

Air Force Major Vincent A. Scungio — whose remarried wife now lives in West Hurley — was officially declared dead by the Pentagon Wednesday, 7½ years after his F105 jet was shot down over North Vietnam.

The news was not entirely unexpected. His former wife, now Mrs. Robert Kintner, said Wednesday night that she abandoned virtually all hope in 1969, after military friends told her it was doubtful that Scungio could have survived the crash.

Mrs. Kintner remarried five years ago. "This may seem corny to you, but I did a lot of soul searching and gave a lot of thought to what he would have wanted me to do," she said. "I had four young children . . . I couldn't live in a cave. I had to live. I had to breathe. I had to have air, and they did too."

The anticipation — the hope — that her husband would return safely died slowly. She recalled watching television last year with her children when the first American POW's were released.

"The first film on the POW's always came out at 4 in the morning. The children and I were always up then. It was a very emotional moment. I guess I would have to say I finally gave up the last glimmer of hope when the last of the POW's came back."

Scungio's plane was shot down Nov. 4, 1966, just a week after his 32nd birthday. Both he and the pilot, who also has never been heard from, were declared missing in action then. Scungio was an electronic warfare officer on the plane.

Scungio was one of ten MIA airmen officially declared dead by the Pentagon Wednesday.

Originally from New Castle, Pa., Mrs. Kintner remarried five years ago and moved to West Hurley with her husband and four children. The Catholic Church approved her remarriage.

She and the major were married nine years when he was shot down. Ther four children — Audrey, 15; Pamela, 13; Vincent Jr., 12 and Cherie, whose 11th birthday was Wednesday — all wear MIA bracelets. "They have indicated they would like to continue wearing them," said Mrs. Kintner. "We try to have them be proud of their father. They loved him very much."

Police Investigators, Wife, Take Stand in Murder Trial

KINGSTON — Three witnesses testified for the prosecution Wednesday in the felony murder trial of George M. Carter, 21, of Newburgh, who is charged in the throat slashing death of Newburgh taxi driver Edwin Pascoe, 64, on Aug. 28 in Marlboro.

Newburgh Police Detective Dale Nickerson testified that Carter surrendered to him and that he turned the suspect over to the State Police and was present when Carter confessed to the robbery of about $60 belonging to Pascoe.

Nickerson also testified that he heard Carter claim that Jesse Blackman, 15, of Marlboro, told him he had "cut" Pascoe because the cab driver could identify him.

Carter and Blackman are alleged to have commandeered Pascoe's cab in Newburgh and to have forced him from his cab in Marlboro where Pascoe was tied to a tree and slashed in the throat.

Blackman is presently serving a three-year sentence at Warwick Training School. Ulster County Family Court Judge Hugh R. Elwyn dismissed a petition charging Blackman with robbery and murder in the Pascoe case. He reportedly ruled a confession by the youth was inadmissable because State Police violated his constitutional rights.

A second prosecution witness, Samuel Rubinberg, owner of Sam's Discount Store in Newburgh, testified that the knife used in the Pascoe murder was purchased in his store.

State Police Investigator William McLean also took the stand and told of events in connection with the Carter confession.

Assistant District Attorney Michael Kavanagh is representing The People. Carter's counsel is Barry Lippman.

Earlier this week a hot exchange between Kavanagh and Lippman enlivened the murder trail when Mrs. Helen Pascoe, widow of the slain cabbie, testified.

Lippman objected to Mrs. Pascoe's testifying at all. He said the defense was willing to stipulate that Pascoe had been murdered Aug. 28, 1973 and that Mrs. Pascoe's courtroom appearance would only inflame the jury and prejudice it against his client.

Presiding Judge Raymond J. Mino overruled the objection.

Kavanagh asked Mrs. Pascoe about a gold watch inscribed "To Ed from the boys," which she said he was wearing on the day he was murdered. Lippman objected saying he thought Kavanagh was going to produce the watch and no watch had been entered into evidence.

Kavanagh loudly called the objection "garbage" and said Lippman knew the watch had never been recovered. Judge Mino overruled the objection and Lippman, visibly upset, said he wanted all conversations between counsels "on the record" from then on.

In her testimony, Mrs. Pascoe, in a quiet but firm voice, said her husband regularly carried $80-$100 with him and that it was her husband's writing on a clipboard found in his empty taxi which the prosecution has introduced into evidence.

Other prosecution witnesses have included State Police Investigator Ralph Marcucio who said the bloodstained shirt sent to him at the State Police Laboratory for testing was a size 16L-16½L. Mrs. Pascoe also testified that her husband wore a 16-16½ shirt.

Bruce Scott testified to finding the taxi cab. State Police Investigator Ed Zeboris testified he led the police search team to where Pascoe's body was found and State Police Investigator Wilferd Holik testified he tested the Pascoe wallet for fingerprints and found none.

Marlborough to Tap NYC Water

MILTON — Town of Marlborough is about to become the only district west of the Hudson River to be tied in with the Delaware Aqueduct.

Supervisor Michael Canosa said the town board anticipates signing an agreement within the next few days to tie in its water system with the New York City reservoir system.

It is expected that the town will tap in 1,000 feet below ground in the southwest part of the town in order to assure an adequate water supply in the future.

Marlborough will pay all the costs of tying into the system. The link with the aqueduct was suggested by a city engineer, and Marlborough resident, Edward Clarke.

Although Canosa reportedly stated that the town sought the water link with the city not because of any immediate problems of water supply but to protect the water supply for the future, the State Board of Fire Underwriters recently reportedly criticized the town for inadequate water pressure and rate of flow for fire protection. By going to the city for the water, Marlborough should be able to keep its insurance rates down.

The town consulting with the city over ways and means to relocate the tap, if necessary and establish rates.. Canosa said only a few small items need to be cleared up before the agreement is signed.

Jury Awards Pair $15,000 In Suit Against Utilities

KINGSTON — Two Kingston area men, who were injured when one of three utility poles crashed into the car in which they were riding during a torrential rainstorm in Lake Katrine, March 17, 1973, were awarded a total of $15,000 damages in Ulster County Supreme Court Wednesday.

The six-member jury brought in a verdict within less than an hour awarding $10,000 to Daniel Callot of 2 Douglas Drive, Kingston, and $5,000 to Frank Spadafora of the Town of Ulster and found the defendants, Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company and the New York Telephone Company, negligent. The verdict was unanimous.

During the four-day trial at which Justice Edward S. Conway presided, Callot and Spadafora, represented by William P. Curran of Rosendale, claimed that a 41-year-old utility pole on the property of Northeast News on Rt. 9W in Lake Katrine was not properly secured.

According to the police report of the accident, guide wires supporting one of the poles gave way under high winds. The pole snapped in two with the upper portion falling on the roadway where it struck the car operated by Callot with Spadafora as a passenger. The severed pole reportedly pulled down two others with it, along with a tangle of wires and transformer equipment.

Callot reportedly suffered low back injuries and shock and Spadafora sustained lacerations and shock.

Martin Murtagh was counsel for the Telephone Company and Cook, Tucker and Dwyer represented Central Hudson.

The case concluded the May term of Supreme Court in Ulster County with Justice Conway commenting on the fact that 85 cases were disposed. "That's very good for this county," he said.

Nixon May Start Mideast Journey Next Week

WASHINGTON (U P I) — President Nixon, eager to dramatize success in Middle East diplomacy, may try to arrange a journey to several Arab countries and Israel as early as late next week, a White House aide indicated.

Advance teams are preparing to depart for the Middle East this weekend to prepare for a week-long swing by Nixon to Israel, Egypt, Jordan, Saudi Arabia, and possibly Syria and Algeria. Some of Nixon's aides already are lining up for their travel inoculations.

Nixon personally announced to White House reporters Wednesday that Syria and Israel had reached an agreement on the disengagement of their military forces on the Golan Heights.

He stammered a bit in making the brief announcement, but appeared jubilant over the 33-day shuttle diplomacy by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Nixon will set the dates of his Middle East trip after conferring with Kissinger, who is expected to return to Washington tonight.

Kissinger will brief Democratic and Republican congressional leaders on his mission soon after he arrives home.

Aides said the President at first contemplated merging his Middle East tour with his summit trip to Moscow in late June because "it make sense."

But, they added, the "sensitivity" of the Russians and other diplomatic problems now indicate that Nixon may try to make two separate trips in June, with a few days rest stop in Washington in between.

The trips will offer Nixon a chance to display his strong suit, foreign policy, at a time when the House Judiciary Committee will be considering a bill of impeachment against him as a result of Watergate.

Presidential spokesman Gerald Warren said there has been "no discussion" of a possible moratorium on impeachment hearings while Nixon is abroad.

Presenting Nixon's view, Warren repeatedly has stated that the Judiciary Committee has all the tapes it needs to make a judgment and insists he is seeking a quick resolution of the problem.

But Senate Democratic Whip Robert Byrd has accused Nixon of "delay, delay, delay," hoping that time will be on his side in the struggle against impeachment.

The President appeared to have persuaded Vice President Gerald Ford that he has cooperated sufficiently with the impeachment panel.

Ford, who last week suggested that Nixon might be impeached unless he turned over subpoenaed Watergate tapes, said in Charlotte, N.C., Wednesday that the committee should fully digest the tapes and other documents it now has before pressing for more.

World Reaction . . .
Caution and Hope

By United Press International

Arab nations reacted with caution today to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's success in separating Israeli and Syrian forces, but countries around the world expressed hope for a "durable and just" Middle East peace.

A tearful Prime Minister Golda Meir told Kissinger of Israel's "great appreciation, admiration and wonder" at his marathon mission to end the 11-week war of attrition on the embattled Golan Heights.

"We all hope this goes well, and that this agreement is a beginning for a real and lasting peace with all our neighbors, on all our borders," Mrs. Meir said.

Egypt's government-controlled press played down the military disengagement pact as only a step to full-scale Middle East peace talks in Geneva.

The Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar said peace was impossible as long as Israel "pursues an expansionist and aggressive policy and continues to deny the rights of the Palestinians."

Damascus broadcasts gave more prominence to the latest reports of fighting on the Golan Heights than to Wednesday's Syrian-Israeli agreement to separate opposing armies in the region.

Nixon said Wednesday the chances of a lasting peace in the Middle East "are better than they have been at any time over the past 25 years."

"What was a major roadblock to a major permanent settlement has now been removed," Nixon said in a nationally broadcast announcement.

A Russian-Syrian communique, issued at the end of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko's trip to Damascus, called on Israel to abandon all occupied Arab territory and safeguard "the national rights of the Palestinian people."

West German Foreign Minister Hans Dieter Genscher called the accord an "indispensible precondition for bringing about a durable and just peace settlement for the peoples of the Middle East."

A Belgian government spokesman said the agreement reflected "the talents and efficiency" of Kissinger and raised hopes "the Geneva peace conference can pick up a meaningful pace."

The Italian Foreign Ministry said the pact raised "the prospect of negotiations to re-establish a just peace in the Middle East to the advantage of all people of that region."

The Dutch government said "a favorable climate was created for an initiative aimed at closer cooperation between the countries of the Middle East and the member states of the European communities."

The British Foreign Office congratulated "the governments concerned on this achievement" and said Kissinger's "unremitting efforts have done so much to bring it

Peace Pact Result...
More Oil from Arabs

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's help in negotiating the Israeli-Syrian troop disengagement virtually eliminates the possibility of another Arab oil embargo, a U.S. energy expert says.

"This agreement removes the major impediment to good relations between the United States and the Arabs," John Wilhelm, director of producer country affairs in the Federal Energy Office, said Wednesday.

Wilhelm's statement capped a day of good energy news for the country. The federal energy chief said electric utilities should have enough fuel to avoid power problems this summer, and it was reported that for the first time this year there are no gasoline shortages at the end of the month.

The diplomatic breakthrough in the Mideast, achieved after 32 days of mediation by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, came just three days before the Arabs were scheduled to meet and review their oil-export policy.

"I think with this impediment removed we can be reasonably assured that Arab oil production will increase, especially in Saudi Arabia," Wilhelm said.

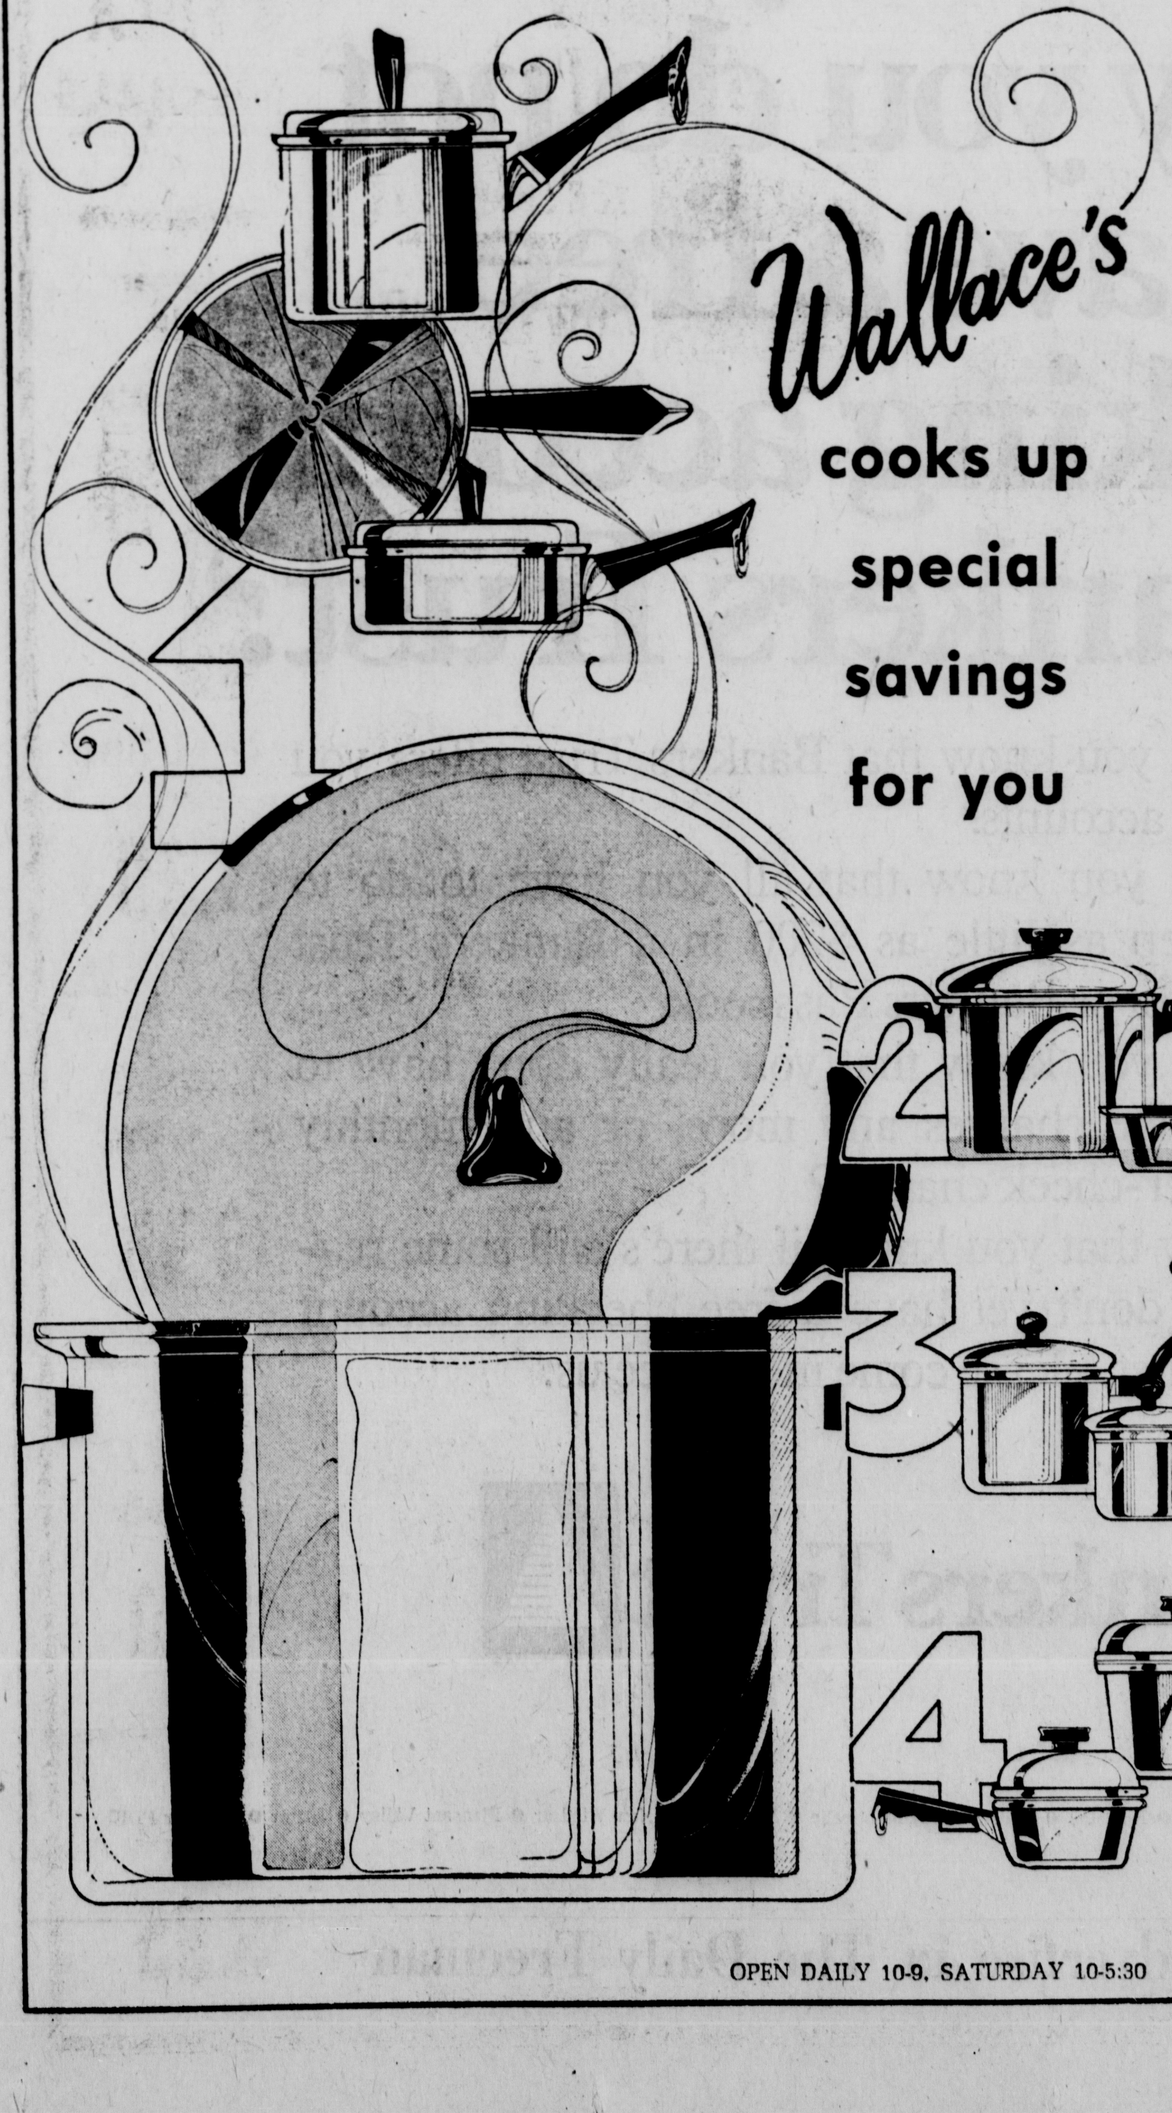

He had made a recnt visit to Saudi Arabia, Kuwait and Libya and reported Arab willingness to increase oil shipments, but said it hinged on U.S.-aided progress in the Arab-Israeli dispute.

Wilhelm said he could not guess how fast or how far Arab oil production might be increased.

Meanwhile, federal energy chief John C. Sawhill said the nation's electric utilities should have enough fuel oil to meet power needs this summer, provided the public and utilities continue to conserve energy.

Sawhill announced that 89 utilities have been allocated 41.9 million barrels of residual fuel oil for June.

If the supply remains at or above current levels, there should be no power shortages due to lack of fuel oil with the possible exception of the East Coast, Sawhill said.

Rent Control Battle Looms for Legislature

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The legislature, running into snags in its special session schedule, faced another day in the Capitol today with a controversy over rent control the main issue.

Wednesday, the lawmakers marked time for much of the day before debating for about three hours and passing bills to reapportion election districts in parts of New York City.

They also approved a measure to postpone from June until September a requirement that candidates for school district elections be listed by lot rather than alphabetically and passed a bill providing $75,000 to finance a judicial conduct commission.

In addition to the rent control issue faced by both houses, the Senate today also slated hearings on the appointments of five Court of Claims' judges announced Wednesday by Gov. Malcolm Wilson.

The on-again, off-again rent control issue was finally resolved among the leadership following long meetings between Wilson and the GOP leaders, Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea and Senate Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson.

The legislature approved the original rent control proposal — affecting New York City and the suburban counties of Westchester, Nassau and Rockland — shortly before adjourning the regular session May 16.

The proposed revisions worked out by the leaders, along with Democratic legislators, would allow tenants to appeal rent increases made after Jan. 10, 1973 or, if the housing had become vacant between July 1, 1971 and Jan. 10, 1973 and a rent increase had been applied during that time, on leases signed after Jan. 10, 1973.

The other revision would call for "formula first rents based on the maximum base rent for 1972-73 as adjusted by guidelines set by the rent guidelines board. The tenant is given a right of appeal with a possible refund from Jan. 1, 1974 if the rent is too high.

Wilson announced shortly after the new revisions surfaced that he had signed the original rent proposal as he had said he would do. The governor had told a news conference that the rent bill originally approved did not meet with his approval and he would seek the revisions at the special session —so the long, drawn out struggle for a compromise appeared to be an effort to save some political ground.

The reapportionment of the congressional and state legislative districts in Brooklyn and Manhattan was the original reason Wilson ordered the special session. Only the governor can hail the lawmakers into special session and only he can officially list what items they will deal with.

The U.S. Justice Department ordered the redistricting in an effort to obtain larger voter turnouts in districts largely occupied by blacks and Puerto Ricans. The federal decision was the first to be applied to a northern city under a law originally aimed at ending voter discrimination in the South.

Drawn by Republican election specialists, the new districts came under sharp attack from Democrats, especially those whose districts were altered most sharply.

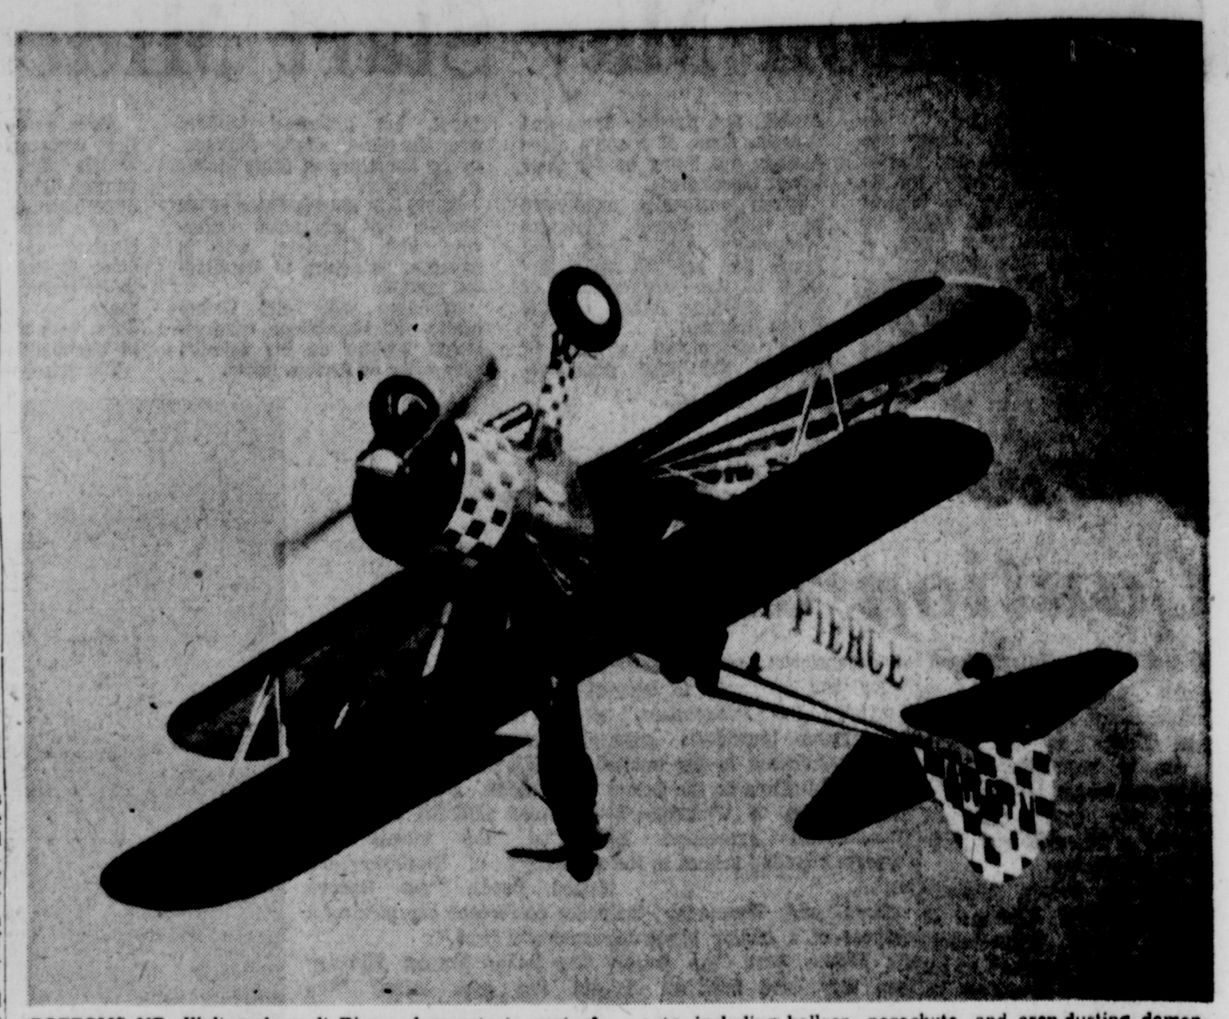

Sen. Chester Straub, a Democrat whose district was dismembered, charged that the GOP would "wear this reapportionment around your necks until November."

Straub is from Brooklyn.

Democratic Assemblyman Frank J. Barbaro, also of Brooklyn, called the measure "a perversion of the democratic process."

Other Democratic legislators most sharply affected by the redistricting are Sen. Carol Bellamy of Brooklyn, Assemblyman Franz Leichter of Manhattan and Peter Mirto of Brooklyn and Rep. John Rooney of Brooklyn, dean of the state's congressional delegation.

Wilson's office announced that he had signed the reapportionment bills into law shortly after they gained legislative approval.

BOTTOMS UP—Walt and sandi Pierce demonstrate part of the act they will present as the featured performers in the third Annual Kobelt Air Show Saturday at Kobelt Airport in Wallkill. The three-hour air show also will include nine other acts, including balloon, parachute, and crop dusting demonstrations, two additional acrobatic acts, and a comedy Piper Cub routine. The show begins at 1 p.m. In case of rain Saturday, the show will be put on Sunday.

A-Plant Study Raises Questions

By WADE BURKHART

LLOYD

The Lloyd Town Board in deciding where it stands on the locating of a power plant on the Lloyd site now being studied by the State Atomic and Space Development Authority (ASDA), would like to see an impact study done on the site by Mid-Hudson Pattern for Progress under contract with ASDA.

Why the board can't get the study is a bit confused. Joseph Deitch, public relations head for ASDA, told the Freeman that the study was not complete and more work is being done on it. Who is doing the work? "Pattern," said Deitch.

Lloyd Supervisor Jon Decker said that is what Deitch has been telling him. Decker said Deitch told him that the study had been sent back to Pattern in Poughkeepsie for more work.

C. David Loeks, president of Pattern, told the Freeman Wednesday that the study had been completed in September of 1972, the study had been sent to ASDA then, it had not been sent back by ASDA, and Pattern was not now doing any work for ASDA.

When will the study be available? Deitch said last week that it would be ready "in a month or so." He denied a reporter's request for a copy of the study, saying it was "too important" to go to any one newspaper, and would be sent out as a general news release to all newspapers.

Decker said the Pattern study was one of the things the board would consider in taking its stand on power plants, and the board "should be able to read" the study beofre it had to make up its mind.

The Pattern study is one of several ASDA has caused to be made. Some of the studies are still continuing; ASDA has just announced a study of the site being done by the National Audubon Society.

Loeks said the Pattern study dealt with "general community planning and development" in connection with the Lloyd site. He said Pattern was "pleased to be consulted" by ASDA, and was glad to see a state agency concern itself with questions about a how such a facilty would affect the community in which it was located.

He said he did not feel free to discuss the results of the Pattern study, but that Pattern, when it contracted with ASDA to do the study, had been "assured the results of the study would be given public distribution," and public meetings would be held on the information.

Red Hook Phone Co. Expansion Program

RHINEBECK

A three-stage building program by the Red Hook Telephone company is being planned to bolster present service and in anticipation of growth in the Northern Dutchess area.

The company, a subsidiary of Continental Telephone, plans to replace the old main bulding on Mill Street in Rhinebeck with a new one.

This new equipment center would be joined by a new office complex on present parking lot space alongside the building. The moves were prompted, according to Philip W. Matzke, general manager, by anticipated 10 per cent growth in the area over the next few years.

First stage of development would call for another addition to the present office-equipment building, and tearing down the old portion of the building fronting on Route 9.

Matzke said that the heavy computerized switching equipment is too heavy for the old building, and new equipment might prove too much, even though the company expressed regret at having to lose the 1890s building.

The company would then erect temporary office space on the parking lot space recently acquired in a transaction with former owner Mrs. Peggy Howe.

The third stage would be the construction of a one-story office building on the parking lot site that can be adapted to the addition of additional floors.

The Rhinebeck building contains the main switching center for the company, although some equipment is maintained in Red Hook, Tivoli, and Elizaville substations.

The purchase and installation of trunk cable equipment is expected to cost the Red Hook Telephone Company in excess of 3 million in 1974. The company sub-contracts with Henkel and McCoy, whose green trucks have become a familiar sight in the area.

Most of this money is being used to replace old line, even though the company expects 400 new customers alone during this coming year.

One problem that may be alleviated is the constant repetition of dialed long distance numbers. Matzke pointed out that only one in three long distance calls goes through with no problems because of overloaded circuits.

The notice of the telephone company's plans, that promise to change the face of dowtown Rhinebeck, comes in the wake of numerous building-conscious changes, including facelifting along the business district rows and major additions by both banks in town, as well as a projected Rhinebeck Civic Center that will attract people to the area.

Professor Nadel to Speak

STONE RIDGE — Edward P. Nadel, an associate professor of economics, and director of international education, at Ulster County Community College will give the principal address at the college's tenth commencement Sunday, June 9 at 4 p.m. on the Stone Ridge campus.

His topic will be "The Global Economy and the American Century."

George Vizvary, chairman of the UCCC Graduation Committee, said the committee decided to select a speaker from the college community, continuing a trend started last year.

Professor Nadel has studied the world monetary crisis for the last 10 years, and has paid special attention to the gold and oil crisses and their impact on the American economy and on underdeveloped nations.

A resident of Stone Ridge, Nadel has been on the UCCC faculty since 1967. He earned his BA degree from Queens College and his MA degree from Northwestern University. Currently he is working on his deoctorate degree at the New School for Social Research.

The graduation ceremony will be held in the plaza in front of the Macdonald DeWitt Library. In case of inclement weather it will be held in the Senate Gymnasium.

Park Opening Set June 1

TOWN OF ULSTER — The new Ulster County recreation park at St. George's Camp, Ulster Landing Road, Town of Ulster, will open Saturday, June 1.

The beach will be supervised by lifeguards and open from noon to 8 p.m.

S. Robert Kelder, (R-Dist. 5) chairman of the Legislature's Youth and Recreation Committee said there will be a five dollar per family, per season fee or 50 cents per day.

There will be free parking for those with permits. Fire places with grills constructed by Board of Cooperative Educational Services students are at each campsite. Many of the campsites have picnic tables.

Construction of a boat launching site is currently underway and the project should be completed in about a week.

The park area will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The Stone Ridge legislator stressed that the water quality of the Hudson River at this point is classified A for water supply and is regularly tested by the Ulster County Health Department.

Ulster Landing Road, about two miles north of the Kingston-Rhinecliff Bridge, off Route 32, provides easy access to the beach site.

Other Trains of Thought

James D. St. Clair is adroit, resourceful and articulate in his conduct of President Nixon's fight against impeachment. Yet on occasion he says things about the case that resonate in ways he perhaps does not anticipate. Two recent examples are of particular interest.

Commenting on the President's refusal to supply materials subpoenaed by the House Judiciary Committee, St. Clair said that this was "a matter of principle" involving protection of the presidency. A day or two later, responding to a question about the possibility of compromise between the White House and the impeachment committee, he remarked, "I think basically what is going to have to settle this is what the American people think."

We have a hunch that "what the American people think" goes about like this: The President's refusal to supply conversation tapes and other evidentiary material specified by the Judiciary Committee in its subpoenas probably means that he has something to hide. This may not be what St. Clair had in mind, but such an inference asserts itself more and more strongly as the case proceeds.

Then there is that St. Clair phrase, "a matter of principle." Here, too, a thought he scarcely intended is brought to the fore. One is reminded of the sound principle that, in an inquiry into possible misconduct in office, decisions as to what is pertinent are the province of the inquiring body and not of the person being investigated.

The President's chief impeachment counsel is, as noted above, adroit, resourceful, articulate. But sometimes his remarks set off trains of thought other than those he meant to put in motion.

Rivalry Between Poorest

The repercussions of the nuclear blast touched off by India continue to be felt throughout the world. Other governments, notably including those represented at the Geneva disarmament conference which has just ended its spring session, seem to put little stock in New Delhi's claim that it plans only peaceful uses of nuclear energy.

This is not surprising, in view of a cardinal fact of international life—the fact that a government's intentions may change to adjust to changing circumstances. Having developed the ability to fashion nuclear weapons if it chooses, India may do so should it feel sufficiently threatened.

Another cause for dismay is that India's action will stimulate other governments to try for nuclear power status. This is not a mere bugaboo, unlikely to materialize. Indeed, Pakistan already has set out upon this course.

Pakistan's Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto promtly announced a stepup in his country's nuclear program, and Pakistani industrialists offered their help in this enterprise. Thus we have the prospect of nuclear rivalry between two of the poorest nations in the world, nations which cannot sensibly afford to divert resources that should be spent on meeting basic human needs.

The Appeal to Patty

One of the most poignant moments in the whole sad tragedy of Patricia Hearst came when her sisters Anne and Vicki made their radio appeal exhorting her not to "throw your life away on a war that doesn't exist." It was Vicki who said that, Anne who told her beleaguered sister, "You're really young and have your whole life ahead of you."

What sort of a life it might be, no one can say. Yet there is clearly a distillation of wisdom in these cries to a loved one caught up in ways foreign to her heritage and upbringing. For this young woman to sacrifice her life on the dark altar of a grossly twisted idealism would be a tragic climax to the bizarre chain of events which began with her kidnaping.

For all their heroics and claims of pure revolutionary purpose, those of her Symbionese Liberation Army captor-companions who died on that altar died quite in vain. Theirs was a pointless gesture of defiance.

If Patricia Hearst takes her sisters' advice and turns herself in to authorities, she will face a difficult ordeal. She has been accused of serious crimes, and must stand trial. Yet if she does this there will be a chance, given the ordeal she already has undergone, of restoration to freedom. At least she will be alive, with some hope of giving meaning to her life. The alternative is to throw away her life on "a war that doesn't exist."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

A Sad Tale of the Seven Seas

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — A highly confidential scientific study describes how oil wastes have poisoned sea life, jeopardized commercial fishing, tarred beaches and made an open sewer of the Seven Seas.

The 405-page document, prepared by the prestigious National Academy of Sciences, disputes the oil industry's massive advertising claims that petroleum production won't cause environmental damage.

On each of the 100 numbered copies, the academy has stamped: "This is a working draft for internal use only, and it bears no official endorsement . . . Not for Publication . . . DO NOT QUOTE OR CITE."

But already, the academy has deleted a crucial section on the cancer threat from oil dumping. Scientists from Shell and Chevron oil companies will help prepare the final report. Therefore, we have decided to publish the findings before they are watered down.

The study shows that more than five million tons of oil wastes are dumped in the ocean each year by tankers, offshore industries, muncipal oil users and oil-spilling motorboat engines.

The pro-oil scientists lobbied in the secret sessions, we have learned, to emphasize the natural seepage of urban auto wastes, which are washed into rivers and carried out to sea.

The strategy was to minimize Big Oil's sea fouling.

Although this section was weakened even before it got in draft form, it still shows 8,000 oil spills a year in U.S. waters alone, almost all of it in coastal waters.

These accidental spills, bilge flushings and other oil discharges are killing off birdlife, threatening entire species with extinction. Certain penguins, ducks and other seabirds are disappearing, the report warns.

"These birds," it explains, "spend most of their lives on the surface of the sea . . . They dive in response to disturbances, and if they dive on encountering floating oil, they become completely coated."

Because these gregarious birds flock together, "a small oil slick (can) cause very large casualties," declares the report. "One colony of guillemots (was) reduced by 250,000 in two years, and razorbills which were once numerous are now extinct as breeders."

A poignant passage in the report describes how mother birds coated with oil tried pathetically to hatch eggs but unwittingly covered the eggs with oil. This weakens or kills the baby birds as they are being hatched.

Birds that lay only a few eggs cannot make up for the losses caused by oil. On British coasts, according to the study, "90 per cent of stranded guillemots have been oiled." Their corpses are washed upon the beaches along a few miles of British coastline.

The oil companies have responded to the protests of environmentalists by touting "the Louisiana story." Offshore oil derricks, the companies allege, have actually increased sea life in the Gulf of Mexico.

The fishing catches, its true, haven't diminished. But the report suggests this is because the fishermen often have shifted locations.

Meanwhile, the 25,000 wells and other oil operations have dumped 1.1 million barrels of oil in the Gulf, tainting the oysters with oily odors and tastes. Oil company canaling and dredging have also let salt water pour into the coastal marshes which eventually destroy oyster and shrimp breeding.

"The time period that the Louisiana fisheries can withstand these alterations is not known," states the report. Only the amazing ability of oysters and shrimp to reproduce under adverse conditions have kept fishing alive in Louisiana, the report suggests.

On the other side of the globe in the Caspian Sea, a combination of petroleum pollution and a drop in the water level have reduced the annual fishing catch from more than 600 million pounds to about 240 million.

The study details how oil slicks and spills poison sea life. The hydrocarbons "invade nerve tissue — spinal cord especially." Mullet exposed to oil suddenly suffer strange fat deposits in their liver. Other fish simply smother or die of shock. No more than "two-cycle outboard motor affluent," the study found, caused fish to "begin gasping after 24 hours."

Lobsters in polluted waters produced tainted eggs which taste like paraffin. The oily waters could also spoil the lobster meat, causing "tainting of the white meat, of the tail and finally the claw meat became tainted but only in the most severe cases of pollution," says the report.

Another oil company myth demolished by the report is the cheery talk of cleaning up oil spills. The study shows that mechanical means, although usually safe enough, are often ineffective. But the ballyhooed "dispersants," which seem to make oil disappear, can cause even worse damage than the oil.

The dispersants may make it easy for marine animals to ingest the oil into their systems. Dispersants may also pollute fresh water or even brackish water longer, with greater danger, than oil. When the Torrey Canyon gushed oil into the sea, it was the dispersants that did much of the damage.

FOOTNOTE: We will report on the deleted findings about the cancer threats in another column.

Debates in Canada

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY Jr.

Mr. Pierre Berton of Canada leads a life almost inexplicably productive, as an author, analyst and (dread expression) television personality. He is currently concluding a year's experiment in an unusual format. It is called The Great Debates. These are between two different contenders, once a week.

The format leaves much to be desired — the opening speaker is given exactly four minutes to state his case (in four minutes I could not adequately explain the case for, or against, Post Toasties). But hark this interesting innovation. The studio audience of about 200 is polled before the debate begins on its views of the subject to be debated. It is then polled at the end of the hour-long exchange, which goes on, from the brief opening statements, to a colloquy between the speakers and then to questions taken from the floor. Then the "victory" is given to the side that has moved votes in his direction.

I saw, in the control room, an interesting exchange, before going on the mat myself, between Mr. Gay Talese and a Mrs. Whitehouse from England, on the subject of obscenity laws. Mr. Talese is the superb journalist, chronicler of the New York Times and after that the Mafia, who has been engaged for several years in researching — by all accounts lustfully — the general subject of Sex in America. For this book he will be paid a huge sum of money, and it is the general assumption in New York publishing circles that they are only now waiting for the Joy of Sex to fall from its semi-permanent perch on top of the best seller list, to announce Mr. Talese's replacement.

The arguments are pretty much familiar, and Mr. Talese was the better debater. But along the way (in the estimate of his adversary) he showed an apparent indifference to pornography's getting into the hands of children, and this — one gathers — had an effect on the audience: so that when the vote was taken, there was a movement of about five per cent in the direction of Mrs. Whitehouse who, therefore, "won" the debate.

My devotion to lost causes being these days in full stride, I defended the propostion that the progressive feature of the income tax should be repealed. I.e., that there should be a straight tax — across the board: as with cigarettes and whiskey.

I thought it interesting that the resolution should be considered at all. I do believe that only a few years ago a proponent of any such thing would have been treated by a general audience about the way Shockley is treated in the colleges. There they reject not only his arguments, they reject the suggestion that they should listen to them.

To take the conventional view was Mr. Rene Levesque, an amiable so alist from Quebec who, I gather, alienated the audience by thanking Mr. Berton for inviting "two foreigners" to debate. This, in the view of some members of the audience, was an arrantly opportunistic blow for French separatism in Canada, extraneous to the issue at hand. But Mr. Levesque had room to spare, the audience having declared itself better than two to one in favor of progressive taxation. At the end of the evening there was glorious movement towards impartial taxation: not enough to form a majority, but movement just the same, and that induces such a nice sensation, I think I shall propose to Mr. Talese that a new room be added to the pleasure domes, wherein the client is permitted to win a debate.

Repeal the progressive income tax! It sounds sort of Birchite, not to say anarchistic. It is hard to attract attention to such radical good sense, even though the research is there abundantly to prove that the principal reason for the progressive tax is not to help the poor but to hurt the rich, even though the figures are also there to prove that by trying to hurt the rich you hurt the poor. How exciting it would be for a strong and self-assured country (Canada?) to be bold enough to rediscover the rule of law, reject the idea of class hostility, acknowledge the economic data, and be guided on this matter, as on others, by my advice.

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Legal Drugs Can Kill, Too

WASHINGTON (KFS) — Since the first studies were undertaken more than a dozen years ago, the estimated number of deaths due to adverse drug reactions keeps rising. The most recent number is 160,000 annually. These are deaths due to legal drugs, legally obtained, mostly by prescription, and used only with bona fide medical intentions.

Adverse drug "reactions kill more victims than does cancer of the breast. They rank among the top ten causes of hospitalization," write pharmacist Milton Silverman and Dr. Philip R. Lee in their depressingly well-documented book, "Pills, Profits & Politics" (University of California Press, 1974, $10.95). The figures on what happens when they get you in the hospital are even more frightening. Somewhere between 30 and 40 per cent of all hospital patients suffer adverse drug reactions.

Some of these are unavoidable either because nobody could have guessed or because the patient was in such bad shape it was worth taking the risks of a dangerous drug. But the greatest number of adverse drug reactions can be attributed to prescribing a dangerous drug when a safer one was available, using the wrong drug or the right drug the wrong way, using a drug of no known therapeutic value or just fouling up in the hospital. Silverman and Lee discovered the appalling fact, which many of us have long suspected, that "from two to eight per cent of all drug doses given in hospitals are in error — wrong drug, wrong dose, wrong route of administration, wrong patient, or failure to give the prescribed drug."

It is true that we also help to kill ourselves without consulting a physician by taking drugs we can buy over the counter.

OTCs aren't as likely to kill as is the stuff the doctor gives us, but we still would live longer and healthier lives if we could get it through our heads that any medicine can hurt and all should be taken sparingly. Even aspirin or products like Alka-Seltzer, Anacin, Bufferin and Excedrin may, when taken in combination with other drugs, cause such fun things as gastrointestinal bleeding and aplastic anemia.

It's the doctors who do the real damage, though. They write 2.4 billion prescriptions a year for any one of 10,000-plus medicines. No doctor can safely know enough to prescribe more than a small fraction of the number, but the evidence is piling up that more than a few are too ignorant and careless to be allowed to push pills to anyone.

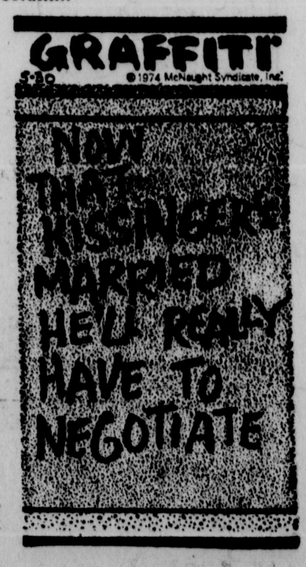

Studies of prescription patterns as far back as 20 years ago showed doctors prescribing for everything including the common cold, but your modern doctor has more ways to kill people than the old-fashioned one did. He can get you with his armamentarium of tranquilizers to cause liver damage, rashes, blurred vision and jaundice, or by prescribing two drugs, both of which are relatively harmless when taken separately but murderous in combination. One study of 42,000 patients showed that nearly 8 per cent of them were prescribed medicines with the potential of interacting harmfully.

In another study of more than 50,000 prescriptions written at Los Angeles County Hospital, it was discovered that 13 per cent were written for quantities in excess of the maximum needed for rational therapy. The computer found one patient who was given 54 prescriptions in the space of 112 days.

The damage caused by avoidable, improper medication comes to something like $4.5 billion a year in hospital bills alone, since a drug reaction patient is estimated to spend twice the time hospitalized as another patient with the same disease. Beyond the money and the deaths there are the mutilated; alive, but, as Silverman and Lee say, "blind or deaf, afflicted with kidney, liver or brain damage, bone necrosis, ulceration of the bowel, intestinal hemorrhage" and so on, painfully on.

Conceivably, the way to stop this is to start a foundation like the ones we have for epilepsy, blindness and other diseases. This one might raise money to put a computer terminal in every drugstore so that the public could have a readout on the prescription pattern of every doctor. It would also give the potential customer some idea of how many patients the doctors has in his practice and therefore how much time he has for diagnosis before whipping out the prescription pad.

More somberly, the facts about drug prescriptions are such that jumping on the manufacturers for their excessive and misleading advertising will not solve the problem. There currently are some legislative reform proposals on the table, but in the meantime it might be worth doing some serious computer studies to see if national health insurance is going to help people or merely deliver more of them into the hands of their executioners.

Choice Between CSEA or SEIU

County Union Election, June 7

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

A choice between CSEA (Civil Service Employees Association) and SEIU (Service Employees International Union) or no union representative at all, will be given close to 1,000 of Ulster County's employes who will go to the polls, Friday, June 7.

Representatives of the state's Public Employee Relations Board will handle the personnel and conduct the election which will employ the use of paper ballots with voting taking place at four different locations.

Those employes qualified to vote must have been on the county payroll as of May 3 and still be employed by the county on the day of the election, according to County Attorney Abram Molyneaux.

Balloting will take place at the Uster County Community College Senate Gymnasium from 2 to 5 p.m. and at the Highway Department muster room at the quarry off Hurley Avenue in Kingston from 7:30 a.m. to noon; at the Ulster County Office Building's Legislative Chambers from noon to 5 p.m. and at the new Ulster County Infirmary on Golden Hill in the third floor lecture room from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Each union will be allowed observers at the polling places and each polling place will have a list of qualified employes. The list of employes is being furnished by the county and will be supplied to PERB whose representatives will be on the voting scene from 7 a.m. on.

Each employes who reports to work in remote parts of the county will be allowed up to two hours time to get from work to polling places and back.

The only group of employes who will not be voting are members of the Ulster County Sheriff's Department who have filed for their own separate bargaining unit. It is anticipated the employes of that department will hold their own election at a subsequent date.

At that time it is expected they will vote whether to remain with CSEA as a spearate unit from other county employes or to form their own bargaining unit.

CSEA which has been representing county employes for several years and SEIU have each been bidding for the right to represent the county employes with a number of demonstrations for higher wages carried on by members of both groups in recent months.

In April, the County Legislature retained the Albany management firm of Thelan Associates as advisors in the push by county workers to get what they claim is an urgently needed salary hike retroactive to Jan. 1 of this year.

Rex Trowbridge, chief negotiator for the local CSEA group, said they are "not asking for the impossible. When we said some time ago in the face of the sky-rocketing cost of living, that we needed an equity adjustment of $1,188 a year for each employe, we meant just that and we have the figures to show it," he said. He suggested the Legislature's consultants will accept those figures and will advise the county accordingly.

SEIU meanwhile forced the election between the two unions by obtaining more than the minimum 30 per cent of signatures needed for such a vote.

Members of the local organizing committee for SEIU said they are confident of winning the election. They contend that it was the intervention of SEIU that pressured Albany based CSEA to come to Ulster to try to gain the support of county employes.

County Legislators have said privately they generally feel that wages should be increased but just how much is the question therefore they have sought professional assistance n making that determination.

'Population Growth' Tops Catskill Agenda

By CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON

Control of population growth and local versus state control were among the major issues discussed Wednesday night as the Temporary State Commission to Study the Catskills met for the second time in nine months in Kingston.

Commissioner Harold Finkle of Kingston served as chairman for the meeting in the County Court House, attended by three other commissioners, staff members, and about 50 representatives of various governmental, civic, and environmental groups.

After a slide show outlining some of the problems the Commission is stuying, Finkle threw the meeting open to questions from the floor.

David Fox of the Town of Hurley said one major problem was theat local planning and zoning boards do not consider developer's proposed water sources and sewage disposal plans. He said the two boards often pass the buck on responsibility and that the Board of Health does not control water and sewage plans well enough.

Herbert Hekler, director of the Ulster County Planning Board, said that the Board of Health approves plans but it is up to the local building inspector to see that developers follow them. He said towns could extend their authority beyond state requirements by adopting the state building code, which would require county planners to approve sewage and water plans.

Another man said that increasing population density in the 6½ counties covered by the Commission was the crux of the problem. Planning additional resources would probably attract even more people and aggravate the problem, he maintained.

"It's not our function to stop growth but to regulate it," Finkle replied.

A man in the audience said he didn't feel the influx of people could be stopped "but we shouldn't encourage it."

"At what point do we say immigration stops?" asked Howard Dorland, a staff assistant. "Do we want more people? There are no easy answers."

Calvert Crary, a director of the State Conservation Council, also took issue with those who would "put a fence around the area."

"We need more public facilities," Crary said. "Fish and wildlife are creating the greatest profits of any industry in the area, bar none."

Another man suggested limiting access to State Forest Preserve lands to discourage growth, but Albert Hall, the Commission's executive director, pointed out that state lands belong to all the people "and not all visitors are out to ruin them."

Asked if the study of the Catskills is similar to a study done several years ago in the Adirondacks, Hall called it "quite different." He noted that the study is not limited to Catskill Park and said the pressures from outside are greater here because the area is closer to the New York metropolitan area.

Town of Ulster Supervisor Carmine Sabino called for more state regulation of snowmobiles and minibikes, saying their owners show no respect for private property. "I don't want to deprive them of their recreation, but if they continue they will bring about more and more posting of land," Sabino predicted.

Another man agreed, saying that dealers were selling vehicles to young people who were forced to use private property because they could not operate them on roads. "It is an invasion of privacy from an industry with no controls," he said. If it is not regulated our forest preserve and rural areas are threatened."

The Commission filed an interim report on its work with Governor Wilson last month and is due to submit a final report by March 31, 1975. Hall said after the meeting that he felt it had been productive and that the Commission would "adjust to the problems mentioned by the people at these meetings."

Rehab Unit Open House Set Sunday

KINGSTON — The Children's Rehabilitation Center — United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County invites the residents of Ulster and Greene Counties to an Open House on Sunday, June 2, from 3 to 5 p. m.

The Open House will be at the Children's Rehabilitation Center on Webster Street which serves varying degrees and types of handicaps within a broad age range. Visitors will have an opportunity to see the Speech and Hearing Department Physical Therapy Department, Pre-School, meet members of the staff and board members.

C. R. C. takes up the challenge of its responsibility to the community. By opening its doors, the public may better understand the Children's Rehabilitation Center. Of greater importance is the input and leadershp which members of the community may offer in program, campaign and public relations, a spokesman said.

Cedar St. Woman Held

KINGSTON — A 38-year-old Kingston woman was arrested early today by Kingston detectives after she allegedly shot her husband in the chest, apparently with a small caliber pistol.

Police charged Cornelia Schleede, believed to reside at 72 Cedar Street, with first degree assault. Her husband, Buddy Schleede, also know as Wilber . Schleede and George Harrison, 37, of 72 Cedar Street, was confined in the intensive care unit at Kingston Hospital after what police said was apparently a street shooting following an argument.

Detectives have been unable to interview the victim, but said they have learned that the couple had apparently been drinking prior to the shooting. Shortly after 3 a.m. Schleede staggered into the Colonial Lounge at the corner of Broadway and Cedar Street and collapsed on the floor.

Patrons at the bar, where Schleede and his wife had reportedly been drinking earlier, took the injured man to Kingston Hospital. Police were also summoned.

Detectives said Mrs. Schleede appeared at the hospital at about 4 a.m. and was asked to come to police headquarters for questioning. There she allegedly admitted to shooting her husband somewhere in the vicinity of the Colonial Lounge.

Detectives said the woman allegedly told them the shot was fired after her husband physically assaulted her. She was treated and released at Kingston Hospital during the morning for a shoulder injury apparently suffered in the scuffle with her husband.

Second Hearing On Construction

The second in a series o three public hearings on proposed renovations to the New Paltz Middle School will be held tonight at 8 p. m. at the Gardiner Firehouse.

Twenty-two residents attended Wednesday's hearing at the Middle School Auditorium. District officials explained the need for $660,000 in renovations to the school, and answered various questions from the public.

The third presentation will be held June 3 at 8 p. m. at the Esopus Firehouse. Voting on 10 separate propositions that total $660,000 will be held June 12.

The original $660,000 bond resolution for repairs to the Middle School was defeated April 2, prompting district officials to break down overall repairs into 10 separate projects. The voters will decide which one, if any, they want performed.

Man Arrested, Wanted by Army

A 22-year-old former New York City man was arrested Wednesday in Woodstock on a federal warrant charging him with failing to report for induction into the armed services in 1972.

Kenneth Mark Migliaccio, who gave his current address as 16 Rock City Road, Woodstock, was picked up by Woodstock constables and was turned over to the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Kingston.

FBI agents said Migliaccio had been indicted by a federal court on April 24, 1973 for a violation of the Selective Service Act. He had allegedly failed to report for induction on Sept. 13, 1972, and had been missing since that date.

Endorsement for Resseguie

BINGHAMTON — "Realizing the crumbling conditions of governments around the world and the problems of our own United States government, I feel it an absolute necessity that the people of the 27th Congressional District send a man most capable of coping with these problems to Washington," Charles C. Kark said today.

"I also feel that after winning around 43 per cent of the Broome County Executive primary vote in which I carried 10 of the 16 towns in 1972, that I owe the thousands who voted for me a degree of leadership in this Congressional race," Kark said.

"Therefore I am very strongly endorsing the candidacy of Franklin B. Resseguie for the Congressional seat in the 27th Congressional District. I urge those who supported and voted for me in the 1972 County Executive race to support Mr. Resseguie in every way possible and to unite their friends and neighbors behind him."

"I urge all 27th District voters not to simply take my word, but to watch carefully Mr. Resseguie's news releases and to attend meetings where he speaks. They can see for themselves why I feel he is the best man for Congress. I am amazed at the common sense, practical approach by which he addresses the problems of today because there are so few men in politics that dare to answer things this way for fear of political standing among their colleagues."

Kark said that Resseguie is by no means new to the problems facing the country today since he has debated professors, written articles, and made speeches on these problems before.

"But he is a new face to the elective scene, therefore he has no political ties, owes no favors, and is not encumbered by the political debts and liabilities of the incumbents," Kark said.

"I heartily back Mr. Resseguie's stands on amnesty for draft evaders, the U.S. and Israel, on the President, his opposition to public financing of political campaigns and his desire to have Congress require more complete disclosure of campaign fund sources so their influence could be monitored by the public, and also his stand against abortion."

"I believe Mr. Resseguie stands head and shoulders above any of the other candidates for Congress. Let's get behind him and have a

Rotron Supervisor Is JA Guest Speaker

KINGSTON

Roger M. Duke, a product supervisor at Rotron Inc., will serve as chairman of the Future Unlimited Banquet of Junior Achievement of Greater Kingston.

Robert E. Deitrick, JA president, announced that the annual dinner will be held at 6:45 p.m. tonight at the Williams Lake Hotel. Clair S. Sheaffer, well known Kingston businessman, will make a special presentation as part of the program.

Climaxing the presentations will be the announcement of the two achievers who will be sent to the National Junior Achievement Conference at the University of Indiana this summer. JA will also provide a scholarship for the most outstanding achiever selected.

The banquet will honor the achievers and company advisors who have worked throughout the year. Indicative of the growth of the JA organization was the increase from four to six JA companies for the 1973-74 school year. These mini-corporations were comprised of 67 achievers who elected officers, sold stock for capital, manufactured and sold products or operated as a service company and at year's end paid dividends to their stockholders.

Each JA company was sponsored by an area business. This year's sponsors included Ferroxcube, Rotron, IBM, WGHQ, Hucktrol, and VAW of America Inc. Each sponsoring company sent adult advisors to assist achievers in their business enterprises.

The number of awards to be given out this year is greater than in previous years, Duke said.

Overseas Bill Gains Approval

WASHINGTON, D. C.

The House of Representatives has passed legislation co-sponsored by Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (26th District) extending and revising the authority for the Overseas Private Investment Corporation until 1977.

The legislation, which emanated from Gilman's Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on Foreign Economic Policy, establishes a timetable for transferring the Federal insurance functions of OPIC to private industry.

"It is evident, from our investigations and extensive hearings, that OPIC serves a useful purpose in furthering our nation's objectives in the developing world," Gilman said in debate on the bill.

Gilman noted that OPIC, which initially encountered financial difficulties necessitating a federal government subsidy, now "operates more effectively, without imposing any drain on taxpayers' funds, while at the same time improving our trade relations with other nations."

The purpose of OPIC is to encourage, through Government insurance and finance incentives, U.S. private investment in less developed, friendly countries, Rep. Gilman noted.

"OPIC serves a vital purpose, as a vehicle for assisting our development goals in other parts of the world and by encouraging U.S. investment overseas," Gilman said.

Newburgh, Tuxedo GOP Endorse Rep. Gilman

MIDDLETOWN

The Republican Committees of Newburgh and Tuxedo have announced their endorsement of the candidacy of Congressman Benjamin A. Gilman for re-election in the 26th Congressional District.

Gilman is currently serving his first term in Congress where he serves on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, the U.S. Military Academy Board of Visitors and the Task Force on Energy and Resources. He previously represented the 95th Assembly District of Orange County in the State Legislature for 6 years.

Gilman has received the endorsements of the Republican Committees of the Towns of Crawford, Goshen, Monroe, Wallkill and Warwick.

The 26th Congressional District consists of Orange, Rockland and southern Ulster County.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market opened lower in moderate trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off 0.31 to 795.06 shortly after the opening. Declines led advances, 158 to 109, among the 385 issues crossing the tape.

Turnover amounted to more than 390,000 shares.

The drop in the Dow past the 800 level Wednesday could have some psychological effects, analysts said. The widely followed average is at its lowest level since December.

Rapids Meet Tonight

The regular June meeting of Rapid Hose Company, No. 1, has been rescheduled to this evening at 8 o'clock.

Rally Cancelled

A rally planned for Sunday, June 2 at Academy Green in Kingston marking Solidarity Day in support of Soviet Jews has been cancelled, a spokesman said.

PSC Suspends Rate Increase For Water Firm

ALBANY

The Public Service Commission announced today it has suspended a proposed rate increase of $2,476 annaully filed by Hudson Valley Water Companies, Inc.

A hearing will be held, at a date and place to be announced later, to determine an equitable rate structure for the Company.

Hudson Valley provides service to 392 metered customers in four noncontiguous real estate developments, known as Mt. Marion, High Falls, Hurley Ridge East and Hurley Ridge West in Ulster County. The Company's rate proposal, which cannot be put into effect until a determination has been made by the Commission, would lower the minimum charge for the first 9,000 gallons of water per quarter from $17.85 to $17.50 and increase rates for the next two consumuption blocks by 36 per cent.

The Commission staff describes the minimum charge as "inappropriately high." Staff proposes a rate structure as follows: first 30,000 gallons, $1.62 per 1,000 gallons; next 30,000 gallons, $1.00 per 1,000 gallons; over 60,000 gallons, $.65 per 1,000 gallons.

Staff said its proposal would result in virtually the same bill as the Company's proposal for average residential usage of 15,400 gallons per quarter, and would represent a higher increase for "high residential usage" of 30,000 gallons quarterly.

Barrett Seeks Board Position In Red Hook

RED HOOK

Wallkill School psychologist Richard Barrett has announced he will seek a spot on the Red Hook Board of Education in June 12 voting.

Prior to his announcement, both Dr. Carl Stelman and Attorney Douglas Wicks were as yet unopposed in their bids for re-election. Barrett will seek the seat occupied by Dr. Stelman.

A candidates' night will be held tonight in the high school cafeteria, and final voter registration has been held.

Barrett ran last year, unsuccessfully, in a three-way race that saw Mrs. Marion Greig elected to the board. He and his wife have four children in Red Hook Schools and live on Linden Avenue Extension.

Statisticians Host Dr. Gart

RHINEBECK

Dr. Alan Gart will be the featured speaker at the annual Installation Meeting and Dinner of the Mid-Hudson Valley Chapter of the American Statistical Association.

The dinner will be held Friday, May 31, at 7 p.m., at the Beekman Arms Hotel, in Rhinebeck.

Gart is a vice president of the Girard Bank of Philadelphia, and a former vice president of Manufacturers Hanover Trust of New York.

OK Subdivisions In Marbletown

STONE RIDGE

The Marbletown Planning Board approved two subdivisions following public hearings Wednesday night.

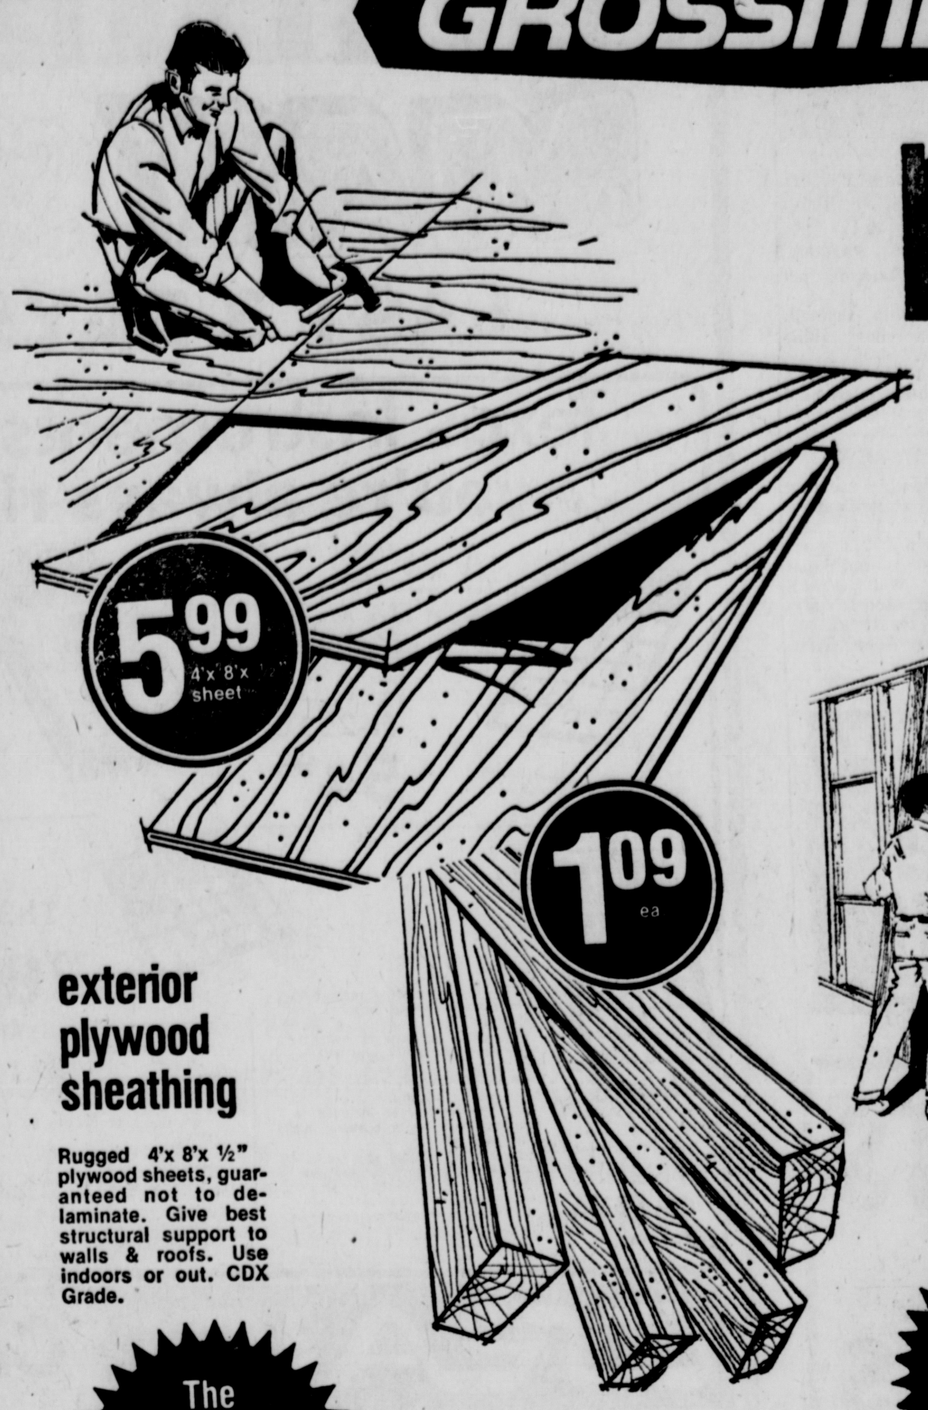

Approval was given to three parcel subdivisions on Creek Side Road owned by the estate of Ernest R. Palen and a two parcel subdivision on Lucas Avenue Extension owned by Albert E. Donnestad.

There were no objections at either of the two hearings.

Dale Bumpers: Smile, Shoe Shine, Speech... 'Another Scalp'

LITTLE ROCK, ARK. (AP) — When Dale Bumpers came out of the Ozark Mountains of western Arkansas in 1970, opponents said he had only a smile, a shoe shine and one speech, but they were wrong—he had more than one speech.

The speeches, the shoe shine, and a smile that has captivated a majority of Arkansas voters for four years have felled in succession three state political giants—former Govs. Orval E. Faubus, the late Winthrop Rockefeller and Sen. J.W. Fulbright.

Since defeating Faubus and Rockefeller to win the governorship in 1970, Bumpers has added an efficient and scandal-free administration to his political assets and at 48 is the hottest political figure in Arkansas in years.

He has an uncanny charm, in person or on television, and has inspired hundreds of previously apolitical people to work for his election.

He seems almost apologetic about his giant-killing charisma.

"My father told me politics is a noble profession," he says. "I believe that. At least that's how it ought to be. I want to help create a political climate that makes the people of this state want to get involved in politics."

Political rhetoric in Arkansas traditionally is delivered with the flamboyance of fiery Old Testament preaching.

However, Bumpers talks calmly, earnestly, eloquently. So magnetic is his charm that it becomes an issue.

Fulbright, who lost to Bumpers Tuesday in the Democratic senatorial primary, repeatedly told voters that good looks and eloquence would accomplish nothing in the Senate.

Fulbright aides referred to Bumpers as "Mr. Clean." One said Fulbright campaigners spent 2,500 man-hours on a generally fruitless search into Bumpers' past.

Bumpers has pointedly taken steps to live up to the idea that politics is a noble profession. He put his ranch, nursing home and other properties in a blind trust to show the public he did not intend to profit personally from his decisions as governor.

He imposed a $1,000 ceiling on contributions to his Senate race, while Fulbright did not set a limit.

Bumpers, a lawyer, and his wife, Betty, have two sons, Brent and Bill, and a daughter, Brooke.

Fulbright: 'Tempestuous Relations'

WASHINGTON (AP) — James William Fulbright, an international-minded senator from insular Arkansas, devoted much of his now-ending legislative career to foreign affairs and did not hesitate to let his views be known.

Three presidents—Democrats John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson and Republican Richard M. Nixon—felt the sting of criticism he delivered as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for an unprecedented 15 years.

Fulbright, 69, became a lame duck Tuesday when Gov. Dale Bumpers defeated him soundly in the Arkansas Senate primary.

His likely successor as committee chairman will be 74-year-old John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., a consistent supporter of Nixon administration military budgets and a backer of foreign aid since the Truman days.

Fulbright's relations with American presidents were more tempestuous.

Truman dismissed Fulbright as an "overeducated Oxford S.O.B." when the then-Senate freshman proposed that the President resign after the Republicans captured control of Congress in 1946.

Early in the Kennedy administration, Fulbright pleaded in vain against U.S. sponsorship of the abortive Bay of Pigs invasion by anti-Castro Cuban refugees.

He remained voted in favor of the 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution that spurred major American involvement in the Vietnam war, but said later he regretted that vote, which he said was based on false information. During the late 1960s he was an increasingly outspoken critic of the American role in Vietnam.

Nixon's Vietnamization policy also drew Fulbright's wrath. With the Vietnam experience in the background, Fulbright became the Senate's most influential advocate of limiting U.S. commitments abroad and curtailing foreign aid.

Fulbright always sought a larger voice in foreign affairs from the Senate beyond the explicit constitutional duty to advise and consent to treaties.

He entered the Senate after education at the University of Arkansas, which he headed as president for three years; as a Rhodes Scholar at Oxford, and as a George Washington University law student.

During a single term in the House, he sponsored a resolution credited with pointing the United States toward participation in the fledgling United Nations. As a Senate freshman he gave his name to a major overseas scholarship.

THE HERD AT THE RACEWAY — Woody Herman and His Young Herd will perform at Monticello Raceway Friday at 6:45 p. m. The performance will include both new rock sounds in the big band style, and such Herman standards as 'Woodchopper's Ball,' 'Caledonia,' and 'Apple Honey.' Track President Leon Greenberg also announced that following up Herman's appearance will be the great Tommy Dorsey Band, which will entertain at the Raceway Saturday, June 8.

Dr. Explains Action With Test Mice

DARIEN, Conn. AP) — Dr. William T. Summerlin, who admitted using a felt-tip pen to darken skin patches on two mice in a research project, says this act was never the basis for any research data.

Dr. Summerlin was sharply criticized last Friday by a peer review committee at Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center, and placed on a medical leave of absence for a year, when his association with the institute will be terminated.

Dr. Summerlin invited reporters to his home Tuesday to discuss his side of the unusual story, saying that he had been placed under "extreme pressure to produce" new results by Dr. Robert A. Good, the director of the research laboratories.

Sloan-Kettering also was criticized by Dr. Summerlin, who said the atmosphere there is not conducive to creative work, with scientists working in an "isolated, cloistered realm."

On March 26, Dr. Summerlin darkened the skin patches on two of eighteen mice which had been given skin transplants. He said he did it in anticipation of a scheduled meeting with Dr. Good, who he said was pressuring him to produce results.

His work with mice had seemed to indicate it might be possible to surmount the rejection phenomenon that is such a large barrier to transplantation. By first culturing skin in the laboratory, he had been able to make the transplants "take," he said. But he used the felt pen to visually confirm the results because they had been questioned by other scientists who were unable to duplicate them.

Summerlin said he is still willing to have his research findings on the subject evaluated by the scientific community.

That March 26 began, he related, with a light-hearted staff breakfast of crepes and champagne brought in by two secretaries.

Shortly afterward, Summerlin said he was alone with the research animals when he suddenly took the pen and darkened the patches.

"When confronted by Dr. Good at noon on the same day," he said, "I admitted this terrible incident and made no attempt to conceal it from Dr. Good or anyone else."

Discussing the pressures, Dr. Summerlin said: "time after time I was called upon to publicize experimental data and to prepare applications for grants from public and private sources.

"There came a time in the fall of 1973 when I had no new startling discovery, and was brutally told by Dr. Good that I was a failure in producing significant work. Thus, I was placed under extreme pressure to produce."

Milk Additive Developed

KINGSTON, R.I. (UPI) — More than half of the world's population is unable to drink milk without eventually becoming ill, but a University of Rhode Island scientist says he has developed an enzyme additive that could help solve the problem.

Dr. Arthur G. Rand says the additive will make it possible for these people to digest lactose or milk sugar.

"Due to an enzyme deficiency, their bodies are not able to break down the sugar," he said. "Therefore, it builds up in the intestines producing bacteria, causing discomfort.

"Up to 90 per cent of the world's non-Caucasians have this problem. It is serious in the sense that 80 per cent of an adult's calcium needs are derived from milk.

"There are two schools of thought on this. First, it may be hereditary or it might be that these races originate from areas where milk is not a staple of the usual diet."

"This would explain why African tribesmen who herd dairy cattle can drink milk as well as I can, while another tribe which lives nearby but has no contact with cattle gets sick from the milk," said Rand's research assistant, James A. Hourigan, a graduate student from Australia.

The professor has been working on the enzyme project for four years. It grew out of a joint effort between the university and the Brown Medical Center.

"The people of Brown became concerned when some of their patients were unable to consume milk," he said.

The additive, created synthetically through organic chemistry, may soon be distributed to drug warehouses. It can be added directly to regular milk or milk producers can make their own line of low lactose milk products, Rand said. It also can be added to powdered milk.

The enzyme gives the mlk an acidic taste which, Rand said, is not entirely objectionable. He said it would be ready for commercial production in the very near future.

NEW PALTZ SCOUTS — Assemblyman H. Clark Bell recently presented copies of the New York Red Book, containing information about the state, its departments, political subdivisions and the officials who administer its affairs to New Paltz Cadet Girl Scouts who visited the Capitol. (L) Mrs. Robert B. Taylor, scout leader, her daughter, Diane; Bell. Janine Persci also was on hand.

Hamilton Reports on Explorer Congress in Washington

NEW PALTZ

David Hamilton of General Interest Explorer Post 172, sponsored by the New Paltz Reformed Church, represented the Rip Van Winkle Council of the Boy Scouts at the 1974 National Explorer President's Congress held April 1-6 at the Sheraton Park Hotel in Washington D.C.

Hamilton, in reviewing the meeting, said:

"I was fortunate to have the opportunity to attend this momentous event at which Explorer Post Presidents from throughout the U.S. got together for a week of social, business and seminar sessions to elect a new slate of officers for the '74-'75 Exploring season.

"I left New Paltz and joined a group of Explorer Presidents from the Newburgh area and in New Jersey we picked up a chartered bus for Washington, D.C.

"During my five-day stay at the Exploring Congress, I attended many interesting seminars and caucus meetings. We visited many of the attractions in Washington, including a tour of the White House. We also had the opportunity to meet many prominent Washington personalities, including Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey who served as the keynote speaker for the Congress. In addition, we attended meetings with leading members of the FBI, CIA and the Secret Service. We also visited the Secret Service training grounds in Maryland."

Hamilton explained that Exploring is the fastest growing program for 14-21 year old boys and girls of the Boy Scouts of America. This program is run and planned by the members themselves who elect a Post President. The objective of Exploring is to give these young people the chance to develop an adult insight into themselves and the world around them, he added.

Here's Why Builders buy at LLOYD Lumber Company

Four reasons. Price, Quality, Service and Inventory. Lloyd Lumber buys up to a dozen carloads of lumber, plywood and other building materials a day. That means lower prices which are passed on to Lloyd customers.

Lloyd stocks construction grade Douglas Fir lumber. That's what you'll get unless you specify white fir, hemlock, hem-fir or another species. You can save money on these in full unit lots from Lloyd. Chances are, you'll pay as much for these species elsewhere than you do for Douglas Fir from Lloyds.

And any builder worth his hammer and saw knows Doug Fir is by far a better species of construction lumber.

Service counts with builders. 22 trucks deliver orders for Lloyd. Everything from small paneling orders to full tractor-trailerloads of lumber on huge condominium job sites. For more details on prices, quality, service and inventory talk to a Lloyd Lumber manager.

A GREATER S STANDARD

STANDARD'S SPECTACULAR 73rd ANNIVERSARY

1901 1974

THE "BIG" SALE OF THE ENTIRE YEAR WITH GUARANTEED SAVINGS

You Did It Again . . . Made It Another Great Year!

1973 was another great year for Standard. Once again we reached a new all-time sales record. Our brand new Schenectady store was opened in June and has already proved itself a big success; and our Rental store, in only its second year, has become another important link in our over-all home furnishings operation. We have some exciting plans for 1974 that we think you'll be interested in. New carpeting, painting, offices in Albany and Kingston, new room settings in Albany and a new drapery department in Kingston will provide you with even more beautiful surroundings in which to shop. Plans for a new Troy store, one floor with loads of parking space, are now being drawn up; and more warehouse space is being planned for either late '74 or early '75. Standard continues to expand. Partly the reason for that growth is because of its one family ownership for 73 years, completely dedicated to serving your needs and solving your problems. Mostly of course, it's you, our customer, who have made Standard the largest in upstate New York. Come in and say hello . . . we want to thank you in person.

Area Synagogue News

Agudas Achim

Agudas Achim, an orthodox synagoge, 254 Lucas Avenue is the only local synagoge offering daily services. The daily services are at 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday evening services are at sundown. Saturday morning services are at 8:30 and Sunday 8 a.m. All services are conducted by Cantor Herman Slomovits. Sabbath candles are to be lighted before 8:10 p.m. Friday.

This week's Bible reading is Naso which is found in Chapters Four through Seven in the Book of Numbers.

* * *

Temple Emanuel

Sabbath services will be held Friday at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, starting 7:30 p.m. Services will be conducted by Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, assisted by Cantor John Park. Sabbath candles will be blessed by Mrs. Jesse Goldsmith. The Kiddush prayer will be led by Marvin and Renee Goldsmith. Rabbi Eichhorn will speak on Tradition and Change.

During services the memories of the following persons will be invoked: Rabbi Aaron Koslowsky, Joseph Honig, Meyer Gasool, Morris Schlesinger, Harry Rose, Leah Karu, Ike Rothenberg, Dr. Hyman Komaroff, Ray Wolff Kapewich, Dora Ulman, Jean and Nettie Zucker.

After services the congregation may attend the Oneg Shabbat sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Goldsmith in honor of their daughter's forthcoming Bas Mitzvah.

The Temple Youth Group will hold its new member picnic Saturday at the home of Russell Sachs.

The last make-up session for the Basic Judaism Class will be held Wednesday 8 p.m. The next Family Sabbath service will be Friday, June 7.

Persons interested in registering their three and four year olds for the Temple Nursery School may contact Sue Eichhorn or Tom Phillips. The school will begin in September and will meet three afternoons a week, from 1 to 3:30 p.m.

* * *

Ahavath Israel

Religious services are held at Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Synagogue at 100 Lucas Avenue, every Friday 8 p.m., followed by an Oneg Shabbat, and every Saturday 9:30 a.m., followed by a Kiddush. Services are conducted by Dr. Harry Z. Schectman, rabbi of the congregation, and the liturgy is chanted by Cantor Jeffrey Shron.

This Friday evening the Bas Mitzvah of Wendy Kestin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Kestin will be celebrated. The Bas Mitzvah will conduct the services, read the prophetic reading of the week, and receive religious gifts from the Sisterhood, the Talmud Torah and the USY, and the certificate of Bas Mitzvah from the congregation.

Rabbi Schectman will charge her with the Bas Mitzvah lesson. The grandfather of the Bas Mitzvah, who is a cantor in Mexico City, will assist his graddaughter in the conducting of the services by chanting the liturgy. The parents of the Bas Mitzvah extend an invitation to the congregation and their friends to the Oneg Shabbat in honor of the Bas Mitzvah.

The Mourners Prayer will be offered for the following whose yuhrtzeiten will be observed in the coming week: Isaac Farber, Dave Gruberg, William Gruberg, Joseph E. Honig, William P. Lehr, Louis Muller, Samuel Parnett, Jennie Rosenberg, Alexander Serota and Carl Spiegel.

The Religious Department of the Talmud Torah will hold its last session on Sunday morning, June 2. The Hebrew Department of the Talmud Torah will hold its last session Thursday, June 6. The Completion and Honors Assembly will be held on Sunday, June 9, at 10:30 a.m.

Woodstock Library Elections

WOODSTOCK John Ebbs, president of the Woodstock Library, has announced the following people have been nominated to the library Board of Trustees:

For the six full four year terms: Dorothy Berleth, Karen Church, John Ebbs, Lucille Kalish, Kitty Montgomery and Jane Van de Bogart. The nominees for the one year unexpired term is Geddy Sveikausas and for the three 2-year unexpired terms, Curt Douglas, Mona Moore and JoAnn Traub.

No petitions supporting other candidates were received by the library this year, so the slate of the nominating committee of Rita Buoymaster, Robert Plate and Gertie Robinson will stand as named.

The annual meeting of the Woodstock Library will take place this year on June 13 at 8 p.m. at the library. The agenda will include election of trustees, committee reports, report of the librarian and new and continuing programs. Election of officers will take place at a meeting of the board of trustees immediately following the membership meeting.

Onteora Parents Night Set

BOICEVILLE Parents of students in grade 6 who will be entering the Onteora Junior Senior High School in Boiceville this September may attend an informative meeting Wednesday, June 5.

Parents wishing to take a tour of the high school building will be able to do so if they arrive between the hours of 6:30 - 7 p.m. At 7:30 p.m., a brief introductory meeting will be held in the cafeteria with a word of welcome from Carl Brown, Director of Secondary Education.

Parents will then be assigned to a small group which will meet with a high school staff member who will serve as a resource person. Parents will be encouraged to ask questions concerning 7th grade and high school in general during his small group time. Light refreshments and a chance to resolve unanswered questions will conclude the meeting.

Awarded Doctorate at Yale

NEW HAVEN, CONN. William L. Crepet of High Falls, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Crepet of Canal Road, was awarded the doctor of philosophy degree recently at the 273rd annual commencement of Yale University.

A 1964 graduate of Rondout Valley High School, he attended Harpur College on a Regents Scholarship. On graduation he was awarded a Dudley L. Wadsworth Fellowship for graduate study at Yale. He completed his doctoral research in plant evolution on a Joseph F. Cullman Fellowship.

Crepet spent a year at the University of Texas as consultant to the graduate school and is presently at Indiana University, where he opened a new area of research in the evolution of plant reproduction. He received the award for the best paper in research area presented at the 1972 American Institute of Biological Sciences.

Crepet has published several papers on professional journals and will be represented soon in Science Magazine. He will be at Indiana University for another year while his wife, the former Laura Stewart of New Haven, completes her education.

WILLIAM L. CREPET

Federal Funding for Marist

ALBANY

Marist College is one of 11 state institutions of higher education to receive Title One federal funding for the 1974-75 academic year.

The State Board of Regents has approved the community service and continuing education programs and allocated $703,300 of federal funds for their operation.

The new Marist College project, in consortium with the Associated Colleges of the Mid-Hudson area, is funded for $95,000.

This one-year project among 27 institutions of higher education is designed to establish a data-gathering capability of continuing education programs and the current participants in such programs.

The project will also develop methods of information dissemination, determine resources, needs, and demands in post-secondary continuing education; and provide an effective counseling mechanism for the Mid-hudson region.

Interaction between business, industry, and post-secondary continuing education institutions will also be studied thorugh this project.

Other recipinets of Title One allocations in New York are: City College of New York, Queens College, Mahattan College, Corning Community College, Hostos Community College, Fiorello H. LaGuardia Community College, Pace University, Rochester Institute of Technology, Clarkson College of Technology, and Cornell University.

Heart Fund Exceeds Goal

John Golden, (seated left) chairman of the Dutchess County Heart Fund Campaign announced that the heart fund drive has been exceeded by $3,000. Golden said that $113,000 was raised. The goal was $110,000. (L-R) Golden, Mrs. Raymond Belch, Hyde Park Chairman; Dr. Roger Blisss, Milan chairman and Ms. William Kleinhomer, Northern Region chairman.

Pratt Seeks Post

RHINEBECK

Bruce G. Pratt of Rhinebeck has announced his intention to seek election to the Rhinebeck Board of Education.

Voting will take place June 12.

Pratt currently serves as a member of the board's Building Needs Committee. Many of the recommendations of the citizen's committee are now being implemented, such as the recent decision to move grades 6 and 7 to the Bulkeley School.

"I am sincerely looking forward to again working with the board, administration, faculty, students and parents to improve our Rhinebeck education program," said Pratt.

A staff engineer at IBM Poughkeepsie, Pratt is the author of five technical publications and holds two patent disclosures. He received a B.S. degree in electrical engineering from the University of Maine and a Master of Engineering Degree from Boston University.

Pratt recently completed a term as president of the Red Hook-Rhinebeck Jaycees. Last year, he was selected Jaycee of the Year and this year has received three state Outstanding Local President awards.

Vassar Dean Named

POUGHKEEPSIE

Robert L. Stearns, professor of physics at Vassar College, will become Dean of Freshmen July 1.

The appointment, announced by Acting President Barbara J. Wells, noted that Dr. Stearns will continue to teach.

In recent summers Dr. Stearns has been a visiting staff member at the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory in New Mexico. In 1964-65, on leave from Vassar where he has taught since 1958, he worked at the Brookhaven Cosmotron on high energy proton scattering experiments.

And in 1970-71, again on leave, he was a visiting scientist at CERN (The European Organization for Nuclear Research) in Geneva, Switzer-

Dr. Stearns is the author of four books and co-author of another.

As Dean of freshmen he will replace Judah Ronch, who has accepted an internship in clinical psychology at the Astor Home for Children in Rhinebeck.

Mini-Circus Is Planned

RED HOOK

Four days of mini-circus and area talent will be spotlighted in the Red Hook Lions Club Home and Sports Show, beginning today.

According to Raphael Mark, entertainment coordinator, emphasis is being placed on recruiting high school age youngsters in school musical groups for the event, to be held at the Dutchess County Fairgrounds in Rhinebeck.

Also featured as entertainment will be representatives of the New Frontier, Nicky Seeger, Tex Roy, and others.

The event, in its second year, is a fund raiser for the Lions Club of Red Hook. Sports equipment, home appliances, and business accessories will be on exhibition.

Introducing the Heritage Card

You Account.

It's the area's first, convenient no-passbook savings account and your Number One Savings Bank is proud to be the leader in offering this unique banking service designed especially for you.

We've named it the You Account, because just look what the Heritage Card will do for you:

1. BANKING SIMPLIFIED

You bank faster and more conveniently with the Heritage Card . . . the new horizon in banking. The Heritage Card replaces the traditional passbook; provides you with a quarterly statement of your savings account balance and accrued dividends; offers a profitable way to use your money and earn interest at the same time; includes the multitude of Heritage banking services and conveniences and does not have any hidden checking charges or service fees. No longer will you need to carry a passbook. Just your wallet size plastic Heritage Card. And, you can still bank by mail.

2. 24 HOUR BANK-BY-PHONE SERVICE

You can make withdrawals at any time from your own home with a Heritage Card. Tell us by phone how much you want. A check in the amount will be mailed immediately. You may make several withdrawals, in different amounts, with just one call. The withdrawal checks will be payable to you. With a simple restricted endorsement, you can pay bills with the checks. The Bank-By-Phone service offers you 24-hour banking, 7 days a week. You save time, save gas, and save postage.

3. PAYS A BIG 5.25% DIVIDEND

You earn a big 5.25% with the Heritage Card from the day of deposit to day of withdrawal, yielding you an effective annual rate of 5.47%. This is the highest rate allowed by law.

4. NO HIDDEN CHARGES

You are not charged for the checks you use with your Heritage Card. There is no penalty because of withdrawals and no service charge is included on your quarterly statement.

5. SECURITY PLUS FDIC

You will select your own secret, private code number which guarantees that only you alone can have access to your Heritage Card account. In addition, all Heritage Card holders will be insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

6. INSTANT IDENTIFICATION

You have instant, positive identification with the Heritage Card for quick check cashing service at any of our offices.

7. AUTOMATIC LOW COST LOANS

You can pledge your Heritage Card account as collateral for a low cost loan. No financial statement or credit report required.

8. DIRECT PAYROLL OR SOCIAL SECURITY DEPOSITS

You, as a Heritage Card holder, can have your entire paycheck or social security check deposited to your account by your employer or the federal government. Then just use your Heritage Card or call the bank when you need money. Simple. In addition, you still earn interest from the day you deposit to the day you withdraw.

9. FREE MONEY ORDERS

You receive free money orders as a Heritage Card holder. Write as many as you like. It will never cost you a cent.

10. HERITAGE CARD AND THE PASSBOOK

You should still have a Heritage Card even if you already have a passbook account at Heritage Savings Bank. Use the Heritage Card as a checking account . . . and earn interest. Use your passbook account as your long term savings or reserve account.

You will also receive:

- Free pocket folder and pen for easy recordkeeping
- Free copy of "How to Gain Financial Independence," money management guide
- Free photocopy service at any time
- Free, for just stopping in, a box of John Pike note paper. Heritage's way of saying "Thanks" for your patronage.

With everything the Heritage Card does for you, is it any wonder we've named it the You Account?

YOU CAN PICK UP YOUR HERITAGE CARD NOW. NO WAITING. YES — HERITAGE SAVINGS BANK HAS IT ALL.

Just another example of how we provide for your future and you.

DOCKING THE BOAT FOR ANOTHER SEASON

LOUIS (L) AND MIKE TURCK LOAD THE CATCH

Freeman . . . Photo-Feature

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The Hudson River shad is back although the same cannot be said for the men who once went in search of them in small boats across an often unpredictable river.

"There used to be anywhere from 22 to 27 boats in the area, all along the river," says Louis Turck of North Street, one of the last of the shad fishermen. "But not anymore."

"I've been on the river 26 years, myself, four or five years before that with the old timers. They were great shad fishermen. It's an art, you know. Men like Lou Naccarato, Nick Lemister, Stanley Snow, Charles Dasher, Charles Alecca, the closest ones around Kingston point."

Turck can understand why few people take up the business of shad fishing anymore. "It's hard work and you have to know what you're doing." And it can be dangerous. "I've been caught in many a storm. You have to have a good oarsman."

The Hudson River shad is no small fish although it is not classified as a game fish. The male shad can weigh as much as five pounds while the female, "the roe" can weigh up to eight pounds. The shad itself is considered delicious but its roe is considered a delicacy, not unlike cavier though less salty.

The shad "season" runs from mid-March to mid-June when the fish come up river from their Atlantic Ocean habitat but for all intents and purposes, the fishing season is generally the months of April and May.

Shad are caught with a net. "We use an 800-foot nylon gill net with 33 feet of draw." explains Turck. "We fish off the east shore of the river. We usually start near the old ferry building and drift north and at low tide start at Astor's (Mansion) and drift south. We're usually out about an hour, hour and a half."

The nets have buoys on top and rings on the bottom. "On a calm day you can see the buoy bob, just like a dobber on a fishing line, when there's shad in there, you'll know it."

Some fishermen haul the shad out of the net in mid-river. Turck prefers to haul net and shad back to shore for the harvest.

Turck says the haul always includes more than just shad. "You also get carp, striped bass, sturgeon, shineys. I've caught striped bass up to 20 pounds in weight. They're the natural enemy of shad; they eat the young."

Turck allows the river is cleaner than it was "three or four years ago," but contends that "this was always the cleanest part of the river."

While some fish merchants downriver had given up on shad because of oily taste due to river pollution, Turck says the shad he catches have always been acceptable.

POWER ON BOARD, JUST IN CASE

"We've never gotten complaints of oily fish," Turck said. "People say they taste better every year."

There is still no denying that down river pollution has affected the shad run, but as Turck sees it, that may not be entirely such a bad thing.

"Back in the 40's and 50's we used to get tremendous runs of shad. We'd get 300 in a drift whereas now we get maybe 180, 200."

But Turck looks at the other side of the shad reduction. "I think it's better that we get light runs. We get a better price for the fish and there's less waste. I don't like waste."

Turck doesn't make predictions on the future of the small shad business like himself and his wife—"I catch 'em and Lillian sells 'em—but indications are the large commercial fisheries will ultimately gain complete control of the market.

"My two boys seem to like it (Louis Jr., 19 and Joseph, 17) but when we're gone, I don't know. The younger generation just doesn't seem to like to do this kind of work."

"In a way, it's kind of sad," says Turck, "because, really, there's nothing like it."

Hadassah to Install Officers; List Speaker

Mrs. Morton Lurie, president, has announced that Kingston Chapter of Hadassah will have installation ceremonies on Monday, June 3 at 8 p.m. in Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue.

Guest speaker for the occasion will be Mrs. Adolf Fried of Beacon, N. Y., president of the Lower New York State Region of Hadassah. Installing officer will be Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, who has served the congregation in Kingston for the past nine years.

Taking office will be: Anne Breuer, president; vice presidents — Sylvia Starkman, fund raising; Peggy Schlossberg, programming; Lee Markoe, education; Ann Horowitz, membership.

Also Ann Motzkin, treasurer; Shirley Crystal, recording secretary; Barbara Johnson, financial secretary.

Mrs. Fried's topic for the evening will be "Identity, Israel and Hadassah." The wife of a chemist and mother of four sons, she represents a region consisting of 26 chapters with a membership of more than 5,000 women.

Mrs. Fried attended New York University, University of Miami and Charon-Williams Commercial College of Miami, Florida. She has taught religious school, Sunday school and Hebrew School for 11 years and is a substitute teacher in the Beacon City School District. She has been executive vice-president and organization chairman for the past three years on the Region Board of Hadassah and has served in the capacity of area vice-president, treasurer, speakers bureau chairman and spring conference chairman. She has been a representative of the Region to the National Hadassah Medical Organization Committee for several years and is a three year past president of the Beacon Chapter.

Mrs. Fried has also served as president of Sisterhood of the Beacon Hebrew Alliance for two years and is now recording secretary of the Synagogue Board, a member of the Talmud Torah Committee and chairman of the Synagogue Youth Committee. She also serves on the Board of the Westchester-Rockland National Women's League of the Conservative movement.

Mrs. Fried is also active in civic affairs. She has been vice-president and membership chairman of the Hudson Valley Community Concert Association, a vice-president of the Highland Hospital Auxiliary and a Coffee Shop volunteer at the Hospital. She was active in the Dutchess County Council of Boy Scouts, having held the position of Den Mother Coordinator and Activity Chairman of a Pack — the first woman to have held this post in the County. She is a Little League Volunteer and a member of the Southern Dutchess Chapter of B'nai B'rith and Jewish Community Center in Poughkjeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Fried toured the Hadassah installations in Israel in February of this year as well as the occupied territories in Gaza, Jordan and the Golan Heights.

RECITAL — Among those participating in the June 8 recital for the benefit of the Philharmonic will be (L-R) seated, Edmond Fabbie and Todd Brawner; standing (L-R) Brian Johnson and Bruce Johnson. The program will be given in Ramsey Hall, First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf Street and Tremper Avenue in Kingston. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Benefit Recital Is Planned

A recital on June 8 to benefit the Hudson Valley Philharmonic will be given by a group of students of Jane Tonnesen's Music Studio, Mt. Marion. The program will be held in Ramsey Hall, First Presbyterian Church, Elmendorf and Tremper Avenues in Kingston and is the sixth benefit to be given by the studio.

The recital will include piano solos by Susan Blanchard, Susan Braen, Todd Brawner, Carol Costello, Edmond Fabbie, Josanne Greco, Wendy Jackaway, Laura Johnson, Louise Johnson, Bruce Johnson, Brian Johnson, Ann Knickmeyer, the Hon. Rhoda Margesson, Maureen McMahon, Donna Jean Nardo, Nancy Ohnikian, Susan Osborn, Kim Palmer and Karen Whritenor.

Piano duets will be played by Kathy Baker and Mari Kim Moore, and Mari Kim Moore and Linda Sawutz. A flute solo will be played by Ingrid Fabbie, accompanied by her brother Edmond Fabbie.

Compositions will range from Bach, Handel, Haydn, Mozart, Beethoven Chopin Schumann, Schubert, Grieg, Faure, Turina to Bernstein.

Tickets may be purchased from any of the students, or at the door of Ramsey Hall prior to the recital.

Club Caller Named For Lefooters Club

Lefooters Western Square Dance Club will welcome its new Club Caller Bob Bourassa Friday at the Hurley Reformed Church Hall off Route 209. All club level dancers are welcomed to attend the 8 p.m. program.

Bob Bourassa has made calling appearances throughout New England, New York and Canada and Pennsylvania. He is club caller and class teacher for the Tri Town Trotters of Lenox, Massachusetts, the Lanesboro Circle Eights of Lanesboro, Massachusetts, the Greenville Circle Eights of Greenville, New York and the Tumbleweed Twillers Teen Club of Pittsfield, Massachusetts. He is also the co-caller of the Ponderosa Partners of Scotia, New York. He resides in Pittsfield, Massachusetts with his wife Rosemary and their five sons. $150,000 SAYS WE CAN LICK ANY TERMITE IN THE HOUSE

Money talks. Our money. Call in Mid-Hudson Pest Control to get rid of termites, and we can in most cases offer you a termite protection plan. As long as you maintain it, Mid-Hudson Pest Control guarantees to repair any new subterranean termite damage, to the premises covered, up to $150,000.

KNOW YOUR TERMITES

DON'T CONFUSE THESE TWO

If you see just one termite — you can be sure there are hundreds more hidden "workers" eating away at your home. Call us for guaranteed, long lasting protection.

"When You Think of Pests, Think Of Us!"

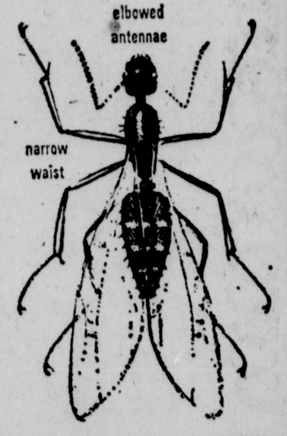

TERMITE

Long nose, flat chest makes her miserable

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old married woman with three children. At school I was called "Pinocchio" because my nose was so long. I also was teased because I was flat-chested. This gave me a very bad inferiority complex.

Last summer I decided to see a plastic surgeon, so I looked in the yellow pages and picked out a name I liked and made an appointment. He charged me $25 just to tell me he wanted $1,500 to do my nose, and $3,000 for silicone implants, cash in advance! I don't have that much money now.

I was so desperate I wrote to President Nixon and asked if he knew of a plastic surgeon who would do it for less. I told him that life wasn't worth living without those operations.

He forwarded my letter to the Mental Health Department, and they suggested I call "Suicide Prevention" if I felt the need to talk to somebody.

Abby, I hate to go anywhere because I always see women with little noses and big bosoms and I feel like crawling into a hole.

Please, please help me.

A MISERABLE MESS

DEAR MISERABLE: You can't be as big a mess as you say because at least one man thought you were appealing enough to marry.

Start with your nose. Call your county medical society for the names of plastic surgeons who would let you pay on time. Also, try a university medical school.

Nobody has everything, dear. Write to Frederick's of Hollywood for their lingerie catalogue. Their padded bras are so realistic, they could fool a nursing baby. And, good luck.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I do volunteer work at my child's school three mornings a week, and I enjoy it. I do not gossip, I mind my own business, and I am not better acquainted with my child's teachers than any other parent.

I felt quite satisfied with myself until my husband asked me to find some other kind of volunteer work. He says he "knows" our child resents Mother "nosing around" school.

Our child is an average student with no problems, and I was of the opinion that he enjoyed seeing me in school. All the mothers I know do some volunteer work involving their children. (Scouting, Sunday school, etc.) I am at a loss to figure this out. Can you?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: No. Ask your husband how he "knows" what he claims to know, and if he doesn't come up with something convincing, just keep on doing what you're doing.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter-in-law steals things from our home. Before we put locks on all our doors and windows, steaks and other foods disappeared from our freezer. Our son (her husband) mentioned casually that they were having steaks so often he was tired of them. In the spring about half of my canned fruit disappeared from my basement fruit room. Their daughter (age 10) said: "It seems like we have just as much fruit as when you canned last summer." Her mother blushed and tried to shush her up.

We spoke to our pastor about this, and he said he thinks our son knows his wife takes these things, but that he's trying to cover up for her. That's hard for me to believe. Our son wasn't raised that way.

The last straw was when they were here for Sunday supper and my daughter-in-law was helping me with the dishes afterwards. She kept hanging around the silverware drawer. After she left, I noticed three forks and four spoons were missing.

I am praying constantly for this girl. How can I help her? She can't be right in the head.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Between prayers, have a talk with your son. You are wise and compassionate to realize that something is wrong with the woman. She needs to be examined by a doctor.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE

HERE'S HOW TO MAKE FOUR MEALS IN ONE POT!

Dear Heloise:

I usually make spaghetti meat sauce from scratch, using double ingredients and extra chopped meat. After it has cooked awhile, I add a large pre-browned pot roast right in the sauce and finish cooking. When the roast is done, I remove it, wrap it in aluminum and freeze it.

Then, I remove a portion of meat sauce and add to it a can of red kidney beans and some chili powder. Then I freeze it in a plastic container for chili con carne.

I then remove another portion of meat sauce and freeze it in a separate container for "sloppy joes." For a fourth meal we have spaghetti and meat sauce for dinner that evening.

There you go! Four meals in one pot.

Gertrude Prince

Dear Heloise:

For my daughter's sewing room, I purchased a peg board and hooks and made her a "thread board." The spools of thread are on the hooks and she doesn't have to look through the sewing drawers for the thread. This makes a neat arrangement.

On the bottom, I put four little drawers for needles and bobbins and other things she might need for sewing.

Everything she needs is right in front of her.

W.E. Badger

Dear Heloise:

I have a problem with static electricity in combing out my hair. I use the anti-static fabric softener when I wash my brush

It works like a miracle to tame down unruly hair.

Only use on brush or comb!

Adele Mortenson

Dear Heloise:

My sister has more hints than I can keep up with.

She made a cover for her baby's infant-seat and made a pocket to fit over the head of the seat. This holds diapers, bottles and just everything that you would normally carry in a diaper bag.

She used flannel cloth (double thickness) in a real cute children's print. This is practical and keeps her baby warm, plus it's easy to wash.

Jan Rhutasel

Dear Heloise:

Since my wife insists that the garden vegetables be washed before being brought into the kitchen, I gather them in an inexpensive dish drainer.

This way they can be washed off close under the outside water faucet and the dirt runs off into the grass.

FIGHT NIGHT — Brewers' pitcher Clyde Wright (L) pulls down Bobby Valentine of the Angels as fight breaks out Wednesday night. Wright, pitching to Valentine, tosses one close to the batter's head. The men confronted each other and the fight broke out after Valentine swung first. Both men were ejected from the game, and Valentine suffered a dislocated shoulder which will sideline him three weeks. (UPI)

'Cardinal Rule' Violated By American Leaguers

By United Press International

"Thou shalt not throw at a batter . . . but if thou dost, be prepared to defend thyself."

That old cardinal rule of baseball was violated twice in the American League Wednesday night, causing two near riots and resulting in the loss of one player for at least three weeks.

The first incident occurred at Arlington, Tex., where Len Randle of the Texas Rangers touched off a fight with relief pitcher Milt Wilcox of the Cleveland Indians in the eighth inning that resulted in a full-scale fight between both clubs and ended up with several of the Indians' players attempting to go after some Texas fans.

A second fight took place in Anaheim, Calif., when Bobby Valentine of California and pitcher Clyde Wright of Milwaukee tussled in the first inning, causing both benches to empty and resulting in a dislocated shoulder for Valentine which will sideline the Angels' left fielder for about three weeks.

Both incidents were triggered by close pitches which the batters interpreted as being meant for their heads. In the Cleveland-Texas game, Wilcox started the trouble by throwing a pitch inside that bounced at Randle's feet. Randle then laid down a bunt which Wilcox fielded and when the Indian pitcher tried to tag Randle out, the two became engaged in a fight.

Both benches cleared and it took the umpires almost 10 minutes to restore order. Then, some Indian players, angered over the debris thrown into their dugout by the fans, attempted to jump into the stands and settle the issue. Policemen finally had to be stationed behind and inside the dugout to prevent altercations.

"The pitcher threw behind Lenny and that's a no-no in baseball," said Rangers' Manager Billy Martin, who as usual was the first one out of the dugout when the action started. "That makes a hitter mad. But he didn't go out of the baseline. The pitcher was in his way and Lenny gave him a pretty good lick, didn't he?."

"I wasn't trying to throw at him," claimed Wilcox. "I was just pitching them inside. I was just a little wild tonight. As soon as he bunted the ball and I got it, I was going to first base with it and then he hit me—bang. He got me pretty good but it was at least 10 feet out of the baseline. I wasn't expecting anything dirty like that."

The Anaheim melee was started when Wright threw a pitch in the first inning that sailed over Valentine's head. Valentine dropped his bat and took three steps toward the mound as Wright came down to meet him. Valentine threw the first punch and the pair then tumbled to the ground.

"The pitch was right at my head," said Valentine, who had traded verbal swipes with Wright during spring training. "If I hadn't managed to get out of the way, it would have hit me right in the face. I knew something was going to happen. I had it all planned.

"If he hits me, he hits me. If it were anywhere except right at my face, I was just going to take my base and say 'that's the game.' But when he misses me, I can't go back in the box. I couldn't give him another chance to hit me in the head. He could have killed me."

In between fights the four clubs managed to play two full nine-inning games, with the Rangers beating the Indians 3-0 and the Brewers edging the Angels 7-5.

Elsewhere in the AL, Minnesota nipped Boston 5-4 in the 13 innings, Baltimore routed Kansas 10-3 and Oakland edged Detroit 4-1. Chicago at New York was rained out.

Rangers 3, Indians 0

Jackie Brown, making only his second start, tossed a three-hitter in pacing the Rangers' victory. Brown, getting a chance to start when David Clyde came down with the flu, struck out eight and didn't allow a runner as far as second.

Brewers 7, Angels 5

George Scott's three-run homer in the ninth capped a four-run rally that enabled the Brewers to win. John Briggs also homered for Milwaukee.

Twins 5, Red Sox 4

Reliever Diego Segui balked home the winning run in the 13th, enabling the Twins to defeat the Red Sox. Rod Carew of the Twins, who scored the winning run, collected two hits in four at bats and raised his league-leading average to .407. Bernie Carbo homered for Boston.

Orioles 13, Royals 3

Mike Cuellar turned in his sixth straight complete game for Baltimore, which snapped a four-game losing streak and ended the Royals' five-game winning streak. Al Bumbry collected three hits for the Orioles while Bobby Grich chipped in with a three-run double.

A's 4, Tigers 1

Sal Bando singled three times and drove in a pair of runs to pace a 15-hit attack as the A's topped the Tigers. Ken Holtzman went the distance for Oakland for his fifth win against six losses.

Sparky: 'LA's Watching Us'

CINCINNATI (AP) — "I think the Dodgers are watching us," said Cincinnati Manager George "Sparky" Anderson after the Reds spanked the New York Mets 3-2, sweeping their three-game series.

"We're playing good in all departments." The victory was Cincinnati's sixth straight, keeping Reds nopes alive for overtaking Los Angeles in the National League west.

Jon Matlack of the Mets and Don Gullett of Cincinnati put on an exhibition of lefthand pitching prowess, but neither figured in the outcome.

Tony Perez crashed a line drive home run into the second tier of seats in the 10th inning off Mets relief pitcher Harry Parker, 1-3, for the victory.

"It was a fast ball inside after he sneaked two curves by me for strikes," Perez said.

Cincinnati has collected three victories off Parker with home runs in the past two years, the previous one by Pete Rose in the 12th inning of the fourth game of the National League playoffs Oct. 4, 1974.

"It has been the pitch they have been getting me out with, but I've been working on it," Perez said.

He said batting coach Ted Kluszewski had spotted him waiting too long to swing at pitches.

Merv Rettenmund doubled Dave Concepcion in the second inning and Pete Rose, who had not been expected to play because of injuries, made it 2-0 with a double to score Gullett in the third.

Gullett was clobbered in the seventh with back-to-back home runs by Cleon Jones and John Milner, tying the score at 2-2.

The Mets threatened again in the eighth when they loaded the bases on reliever Pedro Borbon only to die on an infield out by Jones.

Rose suffered a severely bruised right arm Tuesday night crashed into the left field wall to catch Dave Schneck's long foul.

"Joe Morgan and Tony Perez would never let me live it down if I didn't play against Jon Matlack," laughed Rose.

"A lesser pitcher, okay, but not against him. They'd be on me about taking the day off because it was Matlack pitching.

"He's the first hard throwing lefthander we've faced all year. He's just like Tom Seaver. He's got good stuff on the ball when the pitch is down and not many pitchers can do that."

Carroll, 3-0, got the victory, bolstering the Reds bull pen performance. The relievers have given up only one earned run in their last 19 innings.

"Maybe I better stay sick," Carroll joked. He continues having chest pains brought on by a bronchial spasm. He also forgot to have his pulled leg muscle taped Wednesday night.

"We needed that game," he said. "LA was winning so we have to win."

Robertson Stops Talking

Bob Robertson has decided it's time to do less talking and more hitting.

Robertson, whos' complained in the past about being benched, outlined his new feelings Wednesday night after he hit two homers and drove in five runs to pace the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 13-3 rout of the San Diego Padres.

"I've popped off in the past but I've changed my attitude," he said. "It didn't do me any good to pop off. I'll play when and where they tell me and that's it."

Robertson also thinks the team attitude could change a bit. "I don't like the word 'I.' I'm tired of hearing that word about here. It should be we as a team."

But even though Robertson says he won't pop off, he will admit he hopes he gets a chance to play a bit more in the future.

Robertson has been in the lineup for three straight games only because Dave Parker is injured so Al Oliver was moved back to the outfield and Robertson was inserted into the lineup at first.

Robertson, who went into the game with a .157 average, said, "I'm not a good pinch-hitter. I have to play regularly to keep my timing. That's the whole secret of the game. I guess I'll never hit for average but I can drive in the runs and that's what this club needs now — RBIs. If I can help by being platooned, then that's the way it will be. But I'd hate to sit three or four days at a time. That's when I start going bad."

The struggling Pirates also were pleased by the five-hit pitching of Jerry Reuss, who's pitched three straight complete victories. The last time a Pirate pitcher did that was in 1971 when Steve Blass—now in the minors trying to find his stuff—pitched four in a row. Reuss must continue to pitch well if the Pirates are to get in the race.

In the other games, Cincinnati edged New York 3-2 in 10 innings, San Francisco topped Chicago 5-4, Atlanta blanked Philadelphia 1-0 in 11 innings, Houston beat Montreal 5-3 and Los Angeles beat St. Louis 5-2.

Dodgers 5, Cards 2

Ron Cey's three-run homer in the sixth inning carried Los Angeles over St. Louis. Lefthander Tommy John became the National League's first eight-game winner with a 6 1-3 inning performance and Mike Marshall finished up to get his seventh save. Bill Russell had four hits for the Dodgers.

Braves 1, Phils 0

Pinch-hitter Vic Correll drove home Ralph Garr in the 11th to hand Atlanta the victory over Philadelphia. Correll, an .095 hitter, drove a Steve Carlton 3-2 pitch into deep left centerfield but was credited only with a single scoring Garr from second. Correll batted for Rowland Office, who replaced Hank Aaron after Aaron went 1-for-3.

Astros 5, Expos 3

Bob Watson drove in two runs with a two-out bases loaded single in the ninth to lead Houston past Montreal. Greg Gross walked, Roger Metzger singled and Cesar Cedeno walked to load the bases and set the stage for Watson's winning hit. Tom Walker suffered the loss and Ken Forsch got credit for the victory.

Giants 5, Cubs 4

San Francisco scored four runs in the first inning but it took Bobby Bonds' leadoff homer in the seventh inning to provide the Giants with the margin of victory over the Cubs. Gary Thomasson's two-run double and Dave Rader's two-run single were the key blows in San Francisco's first inning uprising.

Meramec Takes NJCAA Title

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Sophomore pitcher John Whitaker held Miami Dade North of Florida to three hits as undefeated Meramec of St. Louis, Mo., defeated the Floridians 6-4 Wednesday night to win the National Junior College Baseball Tournament.

It was the first championship for Meramec in four trips to the annual tourney.

Meramec jumped off to a three-run lead in the third inning on an error and two singles, one of them by shortstop Steve Viefhaus, who was voted the tournament's most valuable player. Viefhaus, who scored one run and had one RBI in Wednesday's game, set a new tournament record with four home runs in five games.

Miami came back in the bottom of the third, scoring two runs on a homer by Carl Gardner. They took over the lead with two more runs in the fourth, one on an error and the other on a single.

Virdon Threatened

NEW YORK (UPI)—Manager Bill Virdon of the New York Yankees had his life threatened Wednesday by an unidentified telephone caller who apparently was unaware he was talking to Virdon himself.

Virdon was sitting in his Shea Stadium office, after the game between the Yankees and the Chicago White Sox was rained out, when the phone rang and the caller asked for General Manager Gabe Paul. Told Paul was not there, the caller asked to leave a message.

"Tell Paul if Bobby Murcer doesn't play centerfield, Bill Virdon is dead," the caller said. Virdon nonchalantly hung up the phone and asked a reporter in the room, "Are you supposed to report threats."

Virdon replaced Murcer in centerfield Monday night with Elliott Maddox. Murcer was back in the starting lineup Tuesday, but in right field.

After the call Virdon called the Shea Stadium operator to find out if she knew anything about the call and she, in turn, reported it to Pat Kelly, the stadium's director of security.

Virdon accepted it as just a crank call and appeared not to be worried about it. He said Maddox would continue to play in centerfield.

ROOF
Groundskeeper

What makes the Roof Groundskeeper so different from all other chipper-shredders you can buy? It's five machines in one.

By simply changing attachments, it's a chipper-shredder-composter. Vacuum. Bagger. Blower. And trail vac.

The Roof Groundskeeper chops up leaves, grass clippings, branches, shrub trimmings, bottles, cans—or just about anything—and deposits them in strong, disposable, plastic bags. What's more, it reduces waste volume up to 95%.

The Roof Groundskeeper is also built to last—just like all Roof lawn care products have been built for more than a quarter century.

ROOF
Ranger & VP-75 Walking & Riding Mowers

Here are the mowers that'll cut almost anything down to size. From a luxurious lawn to the toughest and tallest weeds imaginable. Some models can even handle small trees.

What's more, you can either walk behind these self-propelled Roof mowers for up-close, around and about mowing. Or you can ride behind them seated in the operator's cart whenever you've got large open areas to tackle.

Money Was There, So Was Jipcho

NEW YORK (UPI) — The money was there and so was Ben Jipcho.

Jipcho, a 31-year-old Kenyan prison officer, ended the International Track Association's second season on a record-busting note and as the tour's top money winner after running what he considered the greatest race of his life Wednesday night, winning the mile run in 3:56.6.

"The 3:56.6, with the Garden's tight turns and 11-lap track, I feel is superior to the 3:52.0 I ran in Europe last summer," said Jipcho, referring to the time he posted in an outdoor meet in Stockholm last July 2 which made him the second fastest miler in history behind the 3:51.1 and 3:53.3 times posted by Jim Ryun.

Jipcho's 3:56.6 was the fourth fastest indoor mile ever run and the best time ever recorded in professional track. The victory was his 18th in 20 races on the ITA tour this season, including a couple of triumphs in the two-mile run, and enabled Jipcho to finish the year with earnings of $16,700.

All year Jipcho was quoted as saying, "I run for the money, not the times." He claimed he could better four minutes as long as somebody set a fast enough pace since, "I am not a good frontrunner," and Chuck LaBenz proved the man willing to assume the "rabbit's" role Wednesday night.

LaBenz jumped out in front and opened up a lead of about 30 yards in the early going. Jipcho was content to run in third place for the first quarter mile before taking out after LaBenz and catching him just before the half mile mark.

With a near capacity crowd of 15,621, the largest ever for a indoor pro track meet, cheering him on, Jipcho, once assuming command, lengthened his lead the rest of the way to win by about 60 yards over Keith Munson, who was timed in 4:04. LaBenz eventually finished third while Ryun, the favorite of the crowd prior to the race, came in a disappointing fourth.

Jipcho's time also eclipsed the Garden record of 3:59.7 set earlier this year by Tony Waldrop, who also holds the world indoor best for the mile of 3:55.0.

Former Olympic champions Rod Milburn, Lee Evans and Randy Matson, plus Wyomia Tyus in the women's 60-yard dash, also came through with impressive victories.

"The difference between pros and amateurs is fun—the pros cut out some of the fun because it is a business," said Milburn after winning the 60-yard high hurdles in 6.9 seconds to complete the year unbeaten in hurdles competition.

"I have to be on my toes every week, the competition is tougher than being with the amateurs," said Miss Tyus, who also remained unbeaten on the pro tour this year by equaling her own world indoor best of 6.5 seconds in taking the women's 60.

Evans, the leading money winner on the pro tour last year and holder of the world outdoor record for 400 meters, was hard pressed to hold off Larry James in winning the 440-yard dash in 48.2 while Matson, the first man to shatter the 70-foot barrier, captured the shot put with a throw of 70-feet, 1 inch.

Another ftrmer Olympic champion, Dave Wottle, wasn't as fortunate, finishing second to Chris Fisher in the 880. Fisher, running his earnings for two years on the tour past the $25,000 mark, was timed in 1:53.5.

Steve Smith, the only man to clear 18-feet indoors in the pole vault, had to settle for a winning leap of 17-8; John Carlos, after being edged by J.J. Jackson (5.9) in the 60-yard dash, came back to easily win the 300-yard dash (31.5); four-time Olympian George Young, still going strong at age 37, took the two-mile run (8:49.0); Ed Caruthers won the high jump (7-feet); and Henry Hines won the long jump with a leap of 26-1 ¼.

Oakland Raider flanker Cliff Branch was timed in 4.4 seconds in edging out Bob Hayes of the Dallas Cowboys in the "King of the Hill" 40-yard dash and speedy Barbara Ferrell nipped lumbering shot-putter Karl Salb to win the mixed 30-yard dash in 3.9 seconds.

"The ITA is here to stay," Jipcho concluded.

And so is Ben Jipcho, as long as the money holds out.

TIME MEANS MONEY — Kenya's Ben Jipcho, who claims he "runs for the money, not the time," did both Wednesday night as he set a world indoor professional record for the mile run. Time was 3:56.6. Jipcho waves to Madison Square Garden crowd during victory lap. The record ended the International Track Association's second year on a glorious note. (UPI)

Hockey Clinics Set at Hurley

KINGSTON

All players between 6 and 12 years old who competed in the Hurley Hockey League during the 1973-74 season have been asked to participate in the weekly Thursday hockey clinics conducted by Felix Swirski, a member of the Granit Hotel's athletic staff.

Twenty boys showed up for last week's workout which stressed skating and basic hockey fundamentals, league president, Bob Yonta reported.

Spotlight Welcome to Patterson and Basilio

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — In a mood reminiscent of a '50s rock revival, there they stood—Floyd Patterson and Carmen Basilio, heroes of another generation—in the ring once more.

Once they were superstars in an era when boxing was king. Once their following was as loyal, if not as sizeable, as that of an Elvis or a Fabian.

Now retired and gloveless, the spotlight was warm and welcome to the two former world champions, who to many are just names in record books. They acknowledged the standing applause of the small crowd and returned to the sidelines.

Both men were in suburban Colonie this week for the Adirondack District AAU Golden Glove tournament. Patterson fielded a team, Basilio was "just making an appearance."

Basilio, who held welterweight and middleweight titles from 1956 to 1958, basks in his retirement of the past 13 years. During intermissions, he signed autographs, shook a hundred hands and smiled as fans said, "Hi ya, champ" or "I saw all of your fights."

While Carmen has a slight paunch—"right now I'm in shape for nothing"—Patterson is as trim as those years in the late '50s and early '60s when he was heavyweight champion of the world.

It's been almost two years since Patterson fought professionally, but many believe his career ended in November 1965 when Cassius Clay, now Muhammad Ali, toyed with him for 12 rounds before the fight was called.

Patterson, whose team was from his hometown, New Paltz, says his professional status has moved from "quarter-retired" to "semi-retired."

"I would love to fight. I'd give anything to get back in the ring," he said. "Training these boys is a way of keeping close to boxing."

Patterson, 39, says he moved closer to retirement when, three months ago, he turned down an offer for a match with Jerry Quarry. It "sounded so good," he said, but finally his wife convinced him to say no.

"One day, I'd be 100 per cent for it . . . but then there's the kids, my wife to consider," he said. "I'm torn."

Basilio, 47, occasionally returns to the ring for an exhibition bout while also teaching physical education at LeMoyne College in Syracuse.

"I don't teach any boxing in my classes," Basilio said. "Mothers and fathers aren't paying for their kids to go to college to learn how to fight."

Each fighter has his own theory on boxing's demise in the '60s. Basilio says it was the economy. Patterson blames television.

"The economy started getting so good," Basilio said, "that you didn't have a lot of poor kids going to the gyms to become fighters. They could get more money somewhere else.

"When I was fighting, the gyms were empty. But when there were layoffs, kids would become fighters. It's tough for a kid coming up today. They don't have enough cards (bouts) around."

The loss of television exposure in the late '50s and early '60s was an irrecoverable blow for boxing, said Patterson, the first man ever to reclaim a title he lost.

During that time, "television dropped boxing altogether. Guys were quitting left and right . . . you had to be a name fighter to make it. Television brought boxing to life, television killed it."

Basilio agrees with Patterson that boxing is making a comeback.

Says Patterson, "There's been a tremendous upswing, especially in the last year. There are many, many more clubs and more variety of fighters."

Patterson thinks Ali has little chance of dethroning heavyweight champion George Foreman when they meet in September in Africa.

"At this particular point, I can't see Clay beating him," said Patterson, who refers to Ali by his former name. "He must get his legs back the way they were 7-8 years ago. If he slows down and allows himself to be trapped on the ropes, it'll be all over."

Asked how he would handle Foreman, Patterson smiled and said. "I'd move. I'd be fast. I'd be getting the hell out of his way."

Mastro's Slug Five Homers

Mastro Construction slugged 23 hits, including five homers, to crush Mosher's Delivery, in a three and one half inning laugher halted by the 13-run rule in the AAA Division of the City Slo Pitch League Wednesday.

In other action, Pier Seven edged Wayside Inn 5-4; Ray's Villiage Inn topped Boyle's 9-5 and Beekman Arms trounced Buster's 11-7.

Mastros scored 18 runs in the first inning and got homers from Ray Lindhorst, George Barnes, Ron Thomas, Bob Smith and Chick Boice.

Dinky Dugan and Ernie Bodie of Buster's also joined the homerun parade.

Thomas had three hits for Mastro's. Bruce Jerry led Ray's with a double and two singles. Jit Torotorella of Beekman Arms connected for a double and two singles.

Bruyn, Notarnicola Pace C & L's Softball Victory

SAUGERTIES — Wayne Bruyn knocked in three runs and Don Notarnicola added two as C & L pounded Mr. T's, 13-3, to take the early lead in the Saugerties D Division softball standings.

In other games, Boo's fell before Helsmoortel Insurance, 7-4, then came back to top Orville and Arlene's, 12-8. Orville and Arlene's also lost a 15-14 decision to Mt. Marion A.C.

Wayne Brunkhurst's two run homer sparked Helsmoortel over Boo's. Don Minkler had a homer in defeat. Minkler checked Orville and Arlene's on five hits to get the win in that one. Ezzie Swart led the offense with three singles.

Orville and Arlene's scored nine runs in the seventh to take a 14-13 lead over Mt. Marion, but the latter pulled the game out in the home half of the inning. Rex Kinnery had four hits and drove in the winning run. Frank Kelsch's double, homer, and four ribbys led the losers.

For Mary Pismopolus: It Was A Day of Days

ROSENDALE — Mary Pismopolus of the Cream Puffs had quite a day for herself in the Rondout Valley Girls Softball League. In addition to pitching a 2-hit, 25-0 shutout against the Powder Puffs, she had a perfect performance at the plate, with a homer, two doubles and two singles in five trips. She knocked in four runs.

Her sister, Athena Pismopolus slammed three singles and a triple and Kathy Rooney had a double and three singles. Janice Slater added three singles.

In the Hurley League, Lisa DiBernardo of the Hurley Ridge Markettes hit three singles to pace her team to a 8-3 win over Hurley Corner Store.

Van Keuren—Homer, 2 Doubles

KINGSTON — Rich Van Keuren knocked in four runs with a homer and two doubles and Buddy Appallonia drove home three as Hucktrol downed Duplex, 14-12, in the Sunday Slow Pitch League.

Elsewhere, LaLima's defeated Modjeska, 13-8, and Greco Motors plastered Bonelli's, 28-3.

Mel Williams' three-run homer in a seven-run second inning was the big blow as LaLima's won its game. Steve Vasilevich homered for the losers.

Greco's pounded out 34 hits, six by Rich Roth, and got two homers from John Cook Jr. to crush Bonelli's, which, for some unexplained reason, was allowed to play with only eight men.

Sawchuck, Mauro Top Gunners

LAKE KATRINE — The Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club came away from its weekly trap shoot all tied up in knots. The markesmen scored in clusters as all but four of the 14 leaders had to share their places.

In the trap division, Brian Sawchuk and Nick Mauro matched .960's to lead the field. Mauro had a 25 straight in his total as did Rill Kopf and Frank Wiese Jr. who each totaled .920 to deadlock for third place.

Phil Siggia was alone in fifth at .904, but he was one of the exceptions. At .900 and sharing sixth were Walt Carry, Jim Pirro and Bob Schmedake, Vinmey Zaccheo at .880, and Paul Kristophy at .860 rounded out the top ten.

The skeet division followed the trend with leaders Grover Ellwworth Jr. and Bob Schmedake tying for honors at .800. Bill Kopf was third at .760.

Lake Katrine will host the next Ulster County Circuit Shoot on Sunday, June 9.

Maroons Score Links Victory

KINGSTON — The Kingston High School golf team rolled to a ten-stroke victory over visiting Roosevelt at the Wiltwyck Golf Club Wednesday as the Maroons boosted their DCSL record to 8-3 with the 173-183 triumph.

Jeff Warbalowsky carded a 41 to lead the win. Bill Reilly fired 43, Randy Speisman added 44, and Bob Thomas shot 45 to complete the scoring. Roosevelt got a 44 from Ron Clark, 45's from Scott and Mark Miller, and a 49 from Mike Bendix.

Now 9-4 overall, KHS will wrap up its season Friday against league opponent Arlington at Dogwood Knolls.

OUTSTANDING ATHLETES — Sharon P. Kuriger (L) and Holly A. Heppner, two Ulster County Community College athletes, have been nominated as Outstanding College Athletes of America and are in competition for OCA Hall of Fame. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Sharon Kuriger and Holly Heppner

Ulster Women Outstanding Athletes

STONE RIDGE — Two Ulster County Community College athletes — Holly Heppner and Sharon Kuriger — have been selected as Outstanding College Athletes of America for 1974.

Miss Heppner, a sophomore at UCCC, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Heppner of Woodstock. Miss Kuriger, a freshman, is the daughter of Mrs. Ruth Kuriger and the late George C. Kuriger of Kingston.

Miss Heppner was selected for outstanding skills in basketball, volleyball and softball. She is studying recreation. Miss Kuriger, who plans to go into physical education, participated in five varsity sports — volleyball, basketball, softball, golf and tennis.

In addition to their athletic skills, the two UCCC students were also cited for leadership, scholastic ability and personality. Holly was recently named as woman Athlete of the Year at UCCC and Sharon was Scholar Athlete of the Year.

The process of selecting students for the Outstanding College Athletes Hall of Fame is now under way. Miss Heppner and Miss Kuriger are officially in the competition with other award winners around the country for this national recognition.

The awards will be presented in a special ceremony to be held in July in Los Angles at the California Museum of Science and Industry, the permanent home of the OCA Hall of Fame.

Sharon and Holly's names will be published in Outstanding College Athletes of America, the program's annual awards volume. The volume will contain the complete biography and record of their achievements as well as those of all the 1974 OCA's of America.

Ketcham Girl Sets State Mile Record

HYDE PARK — Junior Nanette Muhlenbruch of Ketcham High set a New York State girls record for the mile run, but sophomore Lynn Eaton of Arlinton High captured three sprints to lead Arlington High to an overwhelming victory in the Northern Division, Section One, track trials.

The winners won eight of 13 events to rack up 160½ points. John Jay was distant second with 75½ and Ketcham third with 57 points.

Miss Muhlenbruch was clocked in 5 minutes, 56.4 seconds in the mile, eclipsing the 5:57 effort by a Tupper Lake high school girl earlier this season.

Miss Eaton raced home first in the 50, 100 and 220 yard dashes and ran the second leg of Arlington's winning 440 relay team.

A Dutchess County Scholastic League record was set in the 50 yard hurdles, when Dana Dyett of Ketcham negotiated the distance in 7.5 seconds.

Kingston High was fifth in the team standings with 30 points. Debbie Brooker was runnerup to Dyette in the 50 hurdles. Sharon Phillips placed in three events — 50 hurdles (3rd), 220 (4th) and discus (6th). Kingston was third in the 440 relay.

The first six places in each event qualified for the Section One girls track and field championships Saturday at Byron Hills in Westchester county.

AL's Kivlin Pitches No-Hit, No-Run Game

KINGSTON — John Kivlin of the Canfield Supply Dodgers pitched a no-hit, no-run game to shut out the Roland Augustine Insurance Braves, 12-0, in the Kingston American Little League.

Kivlin struck out 15 and walked four, the only Braves to reach first base. It was his fourth straight win without a loss. Phil DeCicco helped with a single and double.

Les Schelling, the slugging shortstop of Lincoln Park Inn Giants knocked in seven runs with a grand slam homer, two doubles and a single, as the Giants routed Dick's Arco Mets, 15-4. Rich Grossman hit three singles.

William Peetom and Keith Adamyk hit home runs in the Saugerties Little League. Russ Scally of the Ulster Auto Body Dogers pitched a two-hitter and fanned 10 to beat the Ferroxcube Pirates, 7-5.

Firemen's Convention Slated for Red Hook

RED HOOK

What may be the longest parade in Red Hook's history has been scheduled for July 13 when the Red Hook Fire Company plays host to the 1974 Dutchess County Volunteer Firemen's Association convention.

Merchants in the village have been notified that a parade with 50 fire companies starting at 3 p. m. and lasting from three to four hours has been promised for the occasion.

Merchants were told by Joseph Saggese, fire police captain, and James A. Fross, parade chairman, that they could expect a large number of spectators at the event, and the "influx of people will be quite beneficial to our community and to you the merchant." Traffic will be detoured around the parade route.

The route will start on Benner Road, east to Route 199, north on Linden Avenue, east on Park Avenue, south on Route 9, east on Fisk Street, and south on Elizabeth Street to the Agway parking lot.

The "four corners" (intersection of Routes 199 and 9 will contain reviewing stands and judging stands. Trophies will also be awarded from this spot.

On July 12 there will be a dinner for about 800 firemen, sponsored by the Red Hook Fire Company, at the town garage.

Set 85th Reunion For Paltz Alumni

NEW PALTZ

The 85th Annual Reunion of the Alumni Association of the State University College at New Paltz will be held Saturday in the Student Union Building on the campus.

Registration will begin at 10 a.m. in the Multi-Purpose Room of the SUB, followed by guided tours of the campus and an alumni mixer beginning at 11:30 a.m. Luncheon will be served at 12:30 p.m., followed by election of board members and officers for the association.

Dr. Russell Abrams, acting principal of the Campus School, will address the reunion on "The New Role of the Campus School." New Paltz President Dr. Stanley K. Coffman Jr., will offer greetings, and Dr. Jack Roosa, president of the association, will preside over the reunion.

Honored at the reunion will be the 50th anniversary class, the class of 1924, and the classes of 1929, 1934, 1939, 1944, 1949, 1954, 1964, and 1969. Awards and recognition will be given to the oldest returning alumni and the one who has travelled the farthest.

Honor classes will hold mini-reunions at various places in New Paltz. For alumni not attending other functions, president and Mrs. Coffman will hold a reception at their home.

Members of the association's board of directors are Dr. Roosa; Mrs. Ned Miller, of Poughkeepsie, first vice president; Mrs. Harold Maybeck, of North Massapequa, second vice president; Mrs. Luke White, of Levittown, secretary; Mrs. Lillian Teicher Loth, of Newburgh, treasurer; and members-at-large Quentin Johnson, of Rhinebeck; Mrs. H. J. Wilkins, of Newburgh; William Eldard, of Massapequa; John Borokhovich, of Valley Stream; and Mrs. Doryce Russell, of Levittown.

$5,000 Bond Wins 14-3 In Cottekill

COTTEKILL

By a microscopic 14-3 vote, residents of the Cottekill Fire District Wednesday approved a $5,000 bond issue for improvements to the district's Firehouse.

The improvements include a new roof for the firehouse, a new garage ceiling, new floor for the garage and firehouse, two new garage doors and one new front door. Paneling and insulation are also included.

TROUBLE IN THE PINES — Duncraig Manor, is the scene of an eviction battle. Mrs. Constance Baker, Long Island, N. Y., owner, donated the 29-room mansion as a residential treatment center for troubled youth with problems not severe enough to require confinement in an institution. The town council in Southern Pines, N. C., is trying to evict the occupants. Neighbors, protesting the center's location, contend it violates the town zoning ordinance. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

ACLU, Father of SLA Victim Seek Probe of L.A. Shootout

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The American Civil Liberties Union and the father of a dead Symbionese Liberation Army member today demanded a public inquest into the deaths of six SLA terrorists killed in a fiery battle with police and FBI agents.

Dr. L.S. Wolfe, of Allentown, Pa., father of Willie Wolfe, and other relatives of the dead are asking for the inquest, the ACLU said Wednesday. The father planned to outline their demands at a news conference today.

The FBI said it has no new leads in the continuing search for the three alleged SLA members still at large — newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst and William and Emily Harris.

"We're still running out all leads," a spokesman said. "There's no indication she (Miss Hearst) has left the area."

The younger Wolfe, 23, died of burns and smoke inhalation May 17 as six SLA members shot at beseiging police and FBI agents from a burning home in a black neighborhood.

In-depth Study

Coroner Thomas Noguchi, replying to the ACLU, said his office is "conducting an in-depth study of the deaths. If at the completion of this study, an inquest is felt to be warranted, it will be held."

But, he said, such an inquest is "not contemplated at this time."

Noguchi has already made public a study of the remains of the six terrorists.

Two of the group were killed by gunfire, he said, and three, including Wolfe, chose to burn to death rather than surrender. After all his followers had died, the wounded leader of the band, Donald DeFreeze shot himself through the head with a revolver, he said.

The ACLU said it "joins relatives in calling for a public inquest in order to ascertain answers to a number of questions which have surfaced since the May 17 events."

Police and city officials and the FBI have defended the use of gunfire against the SLA hideout, pointing out that the SLA opened fire first, with fully automatic weapons, after police give them 10 minutes to surrender and then used tear gas.

Miss Hearst is wanted on 20 state and federal criminal charges and the Harrises on 19 each, including kidnaping, assault, robbery and weapons laws violations.

Resembled Miss Hearst

(In Pittsburgh Wednesday, the FBI said it was "unable to prove or disprove" a report from a motorist who said he picked up three hitchhikers near Indiana, Pa., who resembled Miss Hearst and the Harrises, and that one of the women was carrying a pistol in a shoulder holster).

(The motorist, Howard Vicini, 25, business manager of the campus newspaper of the University of Pennsylvania at Indiana, said the three offered him $300 to drive them to New York.)

(In Sacramento, the state Senate passed by a 26-0 vote a measure that would make illegal the payment of ransoms by charitable trusts or corporations, such as the $2 million food giveaway financed by Miss Hearst's father, editor Randolph Hearst, in an attempt to get the SLA to release his kidnaped daughter.)

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR PERMIT TO DISCHARGE UNDER PROVISIONS OF NEW YORK STATE POLLUTANT DISCHARGE ELIMINATION SYSTEM.

APPLICATION NO. NY-0069302

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to Titles 7 & 8 of Article 17 of the Environmental Conservation Law of New York State for the administration of and the issuance of permits under said Law,

JOSEPH SALERNO
Pine Hollow Campground
P.O. Box 45A, Palenville, N.Y. 12463

has filed a permit application with the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation at its office at 50 Wolf Road, Albany, New York, 12201, where the application and related documents are available for public inspection.

The applicant proposed to discharge treated sanitary wastes into the groundwaters via a subsuface sewage disposal system from their facility located at Rte. 32A, Saugerties (T), Ulster County at which facility the applicant proposes to operate a campground. This is a proposed discharge.

The New York State Department of Environmental Conservation tentatively intends to issue a State Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (SPDES) permit for the subject discharge(s). A final issuance will follow; (1) review of the application to assure compliance with all applicable provisions of Article 17 of the Environmental Conservation Law of New York State and all applicable provisions of the Federal Water Pollutant Control Act Amendments of 1972 (P.L. 92-500); (2) development of special conditions setting forth specific effluent limitations and other controls applicable to the discharge(s) described above including schedules of compliance; (3) development of monitoring and reporting requirements for the applicants performance; (4) consideration of all written comments from persons who qualify, as described below, as interested parties on this notice of application.

Any person interested in this application who wishes to comment thereon or become an interested party in any proceeding regarding this application must notify the undersigned in writing stating specific areas of interest on or before July 1, 1974.

All such written comments will be retained by the Department and considered in the formulation of the final determination. Any such interested party will be eligible to be heard if a public hearing is ultimately held in connection with this application.

Further information may be obtained from the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation, Division of Pure Waters, Room 201, 50 Wolf Road, Albany, New York (457-6997, 457-5115).

HOW TO BUILD A CAMPFIRE.

Everyone loves to sit around a warm campfire. But campfires can be dangerous if not properly built. So before you build your next campfire, here are a few simple facts to remember.

ARE CAMPFIRES ALLOWED? There are some places in the United States where campfires cannot be built. And there are other spots where campfires are allowed only certain months of the year. So be sure to ask about local campfire laws when planning your trip.

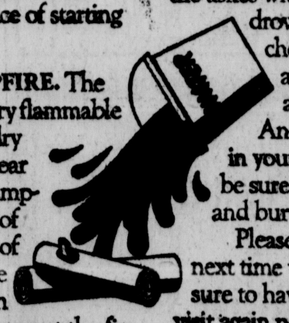

SELECTING A SITE. Try to select an area with lots of shade. And make sure it's away from all bushes, needles, leaves and overhanging branches. So that sparks from your campfire have less chance of starting a forest fire.

PREPARING YOUR CAMPFIRE. The forest floor is covered with very flammable materials—things like bark, dry leaves and roots. So always clear a 10-foot area around your campfire. Then dig a hole the size of your campfire in the middle of the cleared area. And be sure you dig down until you reach thick, natural soil. This will prevent the fire from spreading along the dry topsoil and getting out of control.

STARTING A CAMPFIRE. Always have your safety tools ready before you light your campfire. Simple firefighting equipment includes a shovel, an ax, a big bucket of water, or a car-size fire extinguisher. After you've surrounded your campfire with rocks to hold in the flames, you're ready to add the fuel. Always use dry wood and cut it into short sticks. But never cut into a living tree.

PUTTING THE CAMPFIRE OUT. Always make sure your fire is dead out before you leave. Drown the campfire with lots of water, mix the ashes with plenty of dirt and then drown and stir again. And always check to make sure the rocks around your campfire are cool and not hiding hot embers. And finally, if some of the wood in your fire isn't completely burned, be sure to scrape it down, wet it down and bury it in plenty of dirt.

Please. Follow these simple rules the next time you build a campfire. You'll be sure to have a safe trip. And a forest to visit again next year.

Your Astrograph

Friday, May 31

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Count to 10 before you say what's on your mind to your husband or boyfriend. He's cranky, too.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Persons you'll be working with today won't come up to your expectations. Cross words could ensue, especially if you get bossy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) All your good resolutions about not spending more than you should will go by the boards today. The "I gotta have it now" will take over.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If things aren't done exactly your way at home you'll be difficult for the family to get along with.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Mental work will prove frustrating for you today. Better to set it aside if you can. Do something more physical.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 2) One of your outside interests is going to cost you more than you planned on. Have a little extra put aside.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're involved in anything competitive today and hope to win, you'll have to overcome stiff competition.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Avoid persons who try to force their philosophies on others. You're not in the mood to have someone tell you how to think.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A friend is going to anger you. He's not as open and aboveboard with you as you are with him.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's important that you have a good opinion of yourself so you won't be hurt by something another may say about you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your way of doing certain things today may not be the best. Don't be too insistent that others follow your orders to the letter.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You will find someone extremley appealing. You'd be better off not to be so interested. This relationship will produce sparks.

your birthday

A year with a heavier-than-usual social calendar is in store for you. Two new close friendships will be formed during the coming months.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

ONE YEAR: (Q) Label me crazy, but please believe me. I am in love. I don't mean sex. I mean love. I am not an ordinary girl. I believe in caring.

I am 17. Two years ago I met a strange guy whom I care for very much. Only thing stopping us from getting together any more is he is 16 and his pride is very strong.

I still see him and he comes around when least expected. When he doesn't, which is often, I miss him very much. I would like to know if you feel that age is a barrier, and if it is, if there is a way to jump it.--Love Him in Pennsylvania.

(A) The one year between 17 and 16 is not too big a barrier. The next time you see him tell him Jean Adams said so.

LONG DISTANCE: (Q) Last summer I met a girl from Down South while she was visiting relatives up here. I met her the day before I left. We talked for about two hours and since then have written fairly regularly. She's 15 and I'm 18. The thing is that I hardly know her but I want her very much. You'd think I was in love or something. Can I really love her? Is our age difference too great?—Lonely on Long Island.

(A.) You do not mention dating or interest in any other girl. I suspect that you are more lonely than in love. Take out a local girl or girls on dates and see if your Southern intensity still holds up.

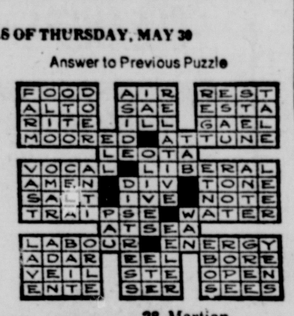

Specifically, it IS possible to fall in love in two hourrs time. And 18 and 15 are a little far apart but not usually too far.

(Write to Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 2404, Houseon, Texas 77001. Every letter is read, but because of the great number received Jean Adams cannot send personal answers.)

Opening lead—2♣

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Four spades isn't a very good contract, but South doesn't have much of an opening bid.

Things start out nicley for him since West opens the deuce of clubs and South does not have to guess in that suit. East takes the ace and leads a club back.

Things start out nicely for him since West opens the deuce of clubs and South does not have to guess in that suit. East takes the ace and leads a club back.

South draws two rounds of trumps with his ace and queen and continues by leading the five, not the jack of diamonds. Dummy's queen loses to East's king and right there Reese and Dormer separate the men from the bosys.

In order for East to beat the contract he must lead a heart. It looks like a really desperate play to do this. Yet if East stops to count to 10 he will make the play.

West had opened the duece of clubs to show four. Hence South started with three clubs. He is going to make six spades, one club (the king already taken) a club ruff, and the ace of diamonds. Thus if he also has the ace of hearts he is sure of his cotract. A heart lead might cost an overtrick but it also might beat the contract and a heart should be led.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

A major barrier to the availability of petroleum products in the United States has been insufficient refining capacity, The World Almanac notes. No new refineries have been built on the East Coast since 1959, though it is estimated that seven new ones will be needed by 1975. Oil industry leaders argue that low profits and high costs, along with environmental opposition have brought the building of refineries to a standstill. It takes about six years to build a refinery.

DR. ERBSTEIN HONORED — Dr. George B. Erbstein, president of Ulster County Community College for the past seven years, was honored at a testimonial dinner Wednesday night at the Williams Lake Hotel. Erbstein has announced that he will leave UCCC at the end of this academic year. Wednesay's testimonial included presentations and plaudits from representatives of the UCCC faculty, administration, student body and alumni, as well as community leaders. Shown are Mrs. Betty Erbstein (L) and Mrs. George Bushnell, chairman of the UCCC Board of Trustees and (standing, L-R) Len Cane, executive vice-president of the Ulster County Chamber of Commerce, who served as toastmaster; Dr. Erbstein and Dr. Murray Block, Deputy Chancellor for University Affairs for the State University of New York. Three ITT Probers Quit Watergate Staff

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The three Watergate prosecution lawyers who had been investigating the International Telephone and Telegraph case have quit.

But spokesmen for Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworksi won't say whether they left because they were unhappy with the charging of former Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst with a misdemeanor rather than a felony for perjury.

Kleindienst was allowed by prosecutors to plead guilty to a misdeameanor charge arising out of false testimony at his confirmation hearing before the Senate Judiciary Commitee in the spring of 1972.

The Washington Post, quoting unnamed sources, said Wednesday that ITT task force chief Joseph Connolly quit because he was unhappy with the decision to let Kleindienst plead to the technical misdemeanor rather than prosecute him for perjury.

Connolly quit abruptly last Friday with no public announcement. Jaworski Wednesday named Richard J. Davis, another assistant prosecutor, to take Connolly's place.

A few hours later, spokesmen for Jaworski announced that two other members of the the ITT task force, Lawrence A. Hammond and Paul R. Hoeber, had also resigned.

Hoeber's resignation was said to be effective "early next week," although Hammond will stay on until mid-August.

The ITT task force has been concentrating in part on allegations of misconduct stemming from Kleindienst's confirmation hearings, where a major issue was whether handling of an antitrust suit against ITT had been influenced by the firm's offer to help finance the 1972 Republican National Convention if held in San Diego.

Errors in IRS Audits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says it found a number of errors in its original audits of White House friends and enemies, but contends the mistakes were "unrelated to political pressure."

The existence of the errors was disclosed in court papers filed in U.S. District Court. The IRS at first refused to discuss the documents but later denied the errors were connected to allegations that the White House used the tax agency to harass its political opponents.

Burke W. Willsey, assistant to the commissioner of internal revenue, said, "Because we had mistakes in our audit process is no indication there was any political interference." But he and other IRS officials refused to release the report on which the court documents were based.

The documents were submitted by the government in a Freedom of Information Act suit filed by Robert M. Brandon of the Tax Reform Research Group, a Washington-based organization. Brandon is seeking release of White House and IRS documents relating to political opponents and supporters of President Nixon, whom former White House counsel John W. Dean III testified received special attention from the IRS.

William C. Rankin Jr., director of the internal audit division of the IRS, said in a sworn affidavit in the case that Commissioner Donald C. Alexander ordered an investigation of Dean's charges last July 2, the week after Dean testified before the Senate Watergate committee.

"As a result of this investigation, I have initiated a report to appropriate service officials on cases which were handled erroneously or not in accordance with established procedures . . . ," Rankin said. "I have reported systems and procedural deficiencies to appropriate service officials so that they could take the necessary corrective action."

British, N. Ireland Leaders Holding Pivotal Meetings

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The British government was meeting with political leaders of Northern Ireland today, trying to salvage something of the collapsed power-sharing experiment between Protestants and Roman Catholics.

Meantime, commercial life of the British province moved toward normal as Protestant workers returned to their jobs, satisfied that their 15-day general strike had reversed British efforts to bring minority Roman Catholics into the Ulster government.

Merlyn Rees, the British minister responsible for Ulster, said his meetings today included talks with hardline Protestant leaders Rev. Ian Paisley, Harry West and William Craig.

Rees assumed administration of the troubled province when the British reimposed direct rule from London late Wednesday by suspending the Northern Ireland Assembly for four months.

The move followed the collapse of the provincial Executive on Tuesday over the provincewide economic paralysis caused by the strike.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson termed the developments in Northern Ireland Ulster's "gravest crisis" since World War II. He called Parliament back from spring recess for an emergency session and pledged Rees would make every effort to restore some form of power-sharing arrangement.

But Protestant hardliners were firm against giving the Catholic third of Ulster's 1.5 million people any more power.

The Ulster Workers' Council warned that the strike could quickly be resumed if demands for early elections for a new provincial assembly were ignored. The militants believe they would win through elections an overwhelming vote of support that would kill British plans which they see aimed at eventual unification of the six counties of Ulster with the predominantly Catholic Irish Republic.

British leaders have not mentioned assembly elections.

The Workers' Council suspended the general strike Wednesday after Protestant workers spontaneously began returning to work in droves.

The strike cost the province about $240 million in lost production, according to an estimate by Prof. James Bates of Queen's University, Belfast.

Up to 30,000 jobs could be jeopardized because of disruption from the stoppage, according to industrial estimates.

Much of Belfast remained without electricity during the night, but it was hoped the power plants soon would resume normal output. Other services, including food sales, quickly were back to almost normal.

The British army said it would start pulling out of fuel depots and gasoline stations at noon today.

In London, opposition appeared building up among backbench British legislators to the continued presence of the 16,000 British soldiers in Northern Ireland.

This would suit the Catholic-oriented Irish Republican Army, which is seeking to break Northern Ireland's links with Britain in favor of merger with the republic to the south.
